WILLARD TELLS THE STORY OF HIS LIFE

ED SMITH GIVES THE 1ST STORY

By ED W. SMITH.
Well Known Fight Referee and Ring Expert.

Herewith is presented the opening instalment of Jess Willard's story of his own life, "How I Won the Championship."

It is the first authentic and authorized story of the new champion's career in and out of the ring and was obtained from him by E. W. Smith the day after the big battle with Jack Johnson in Cuba. Willard gave over the better part of an entire day in dictating the story and later embellished it with many notes and in its present form it can be classed as correct in every detail.

HOW I WON THE TITLE—NO. 1.

Had it not been for the taunts and sneers launched at me at almost every turn during the last three years I doubt if I ever would have persevered in my ambition to win the world's fighting title.

More than once I was tempted to quit in total disgust and go back to Kansas for the simple life of a breeder of horses. More than once I told myself there was no use and I might as well acknowledge then and there that it was a hopeless case.

But the thought of quitting that way, the thought of an unrealized ambition that I knew would torture me the remainder of my life, the idea of giving up a great purpose that I knew was possible of fulfilment, spurred me on. The more they sneered and laughed the firmer I grew in the purpose, and here I am today champion of the world.

That's what won me the title—the stubbornness they say I

10 ZEPPELINS TO ATTACK LONDON

By HENRY L. PERRY,
Personal Correspondent of International News Service.

CONSTANCE, Germany, April 12.—"We intend to attack London with two squadrons of five dirigibles each, regardless of any losses that may be incurred, but we do not expect to make any great aerial attack until all the new units are ready, which will be about August."

This statement was made here today by one of the aides of Count Zeppelin, builder of the famous Zeppelin airships.

"The German air fleet now consists of 3,266 units, of which thirty-six are dirigibles. By July 15 we will have perfected and ready for action sixteen armored airships of a new type, each capable of carrying two tons of explosives. These dirigibles will be so equipped that they can undertake long expeditions, and the science of aerial navigation has been brought to such a state of perfection that journeys can be undertaken in the thickest fog or the darkest nights.

"When Emperor William orders the grand offensive we will be in a position to employ aerial tactics which will cause consternation among the allies.

It was admitted by Count Zeppelin's assistant that heavier aerial losses have been suffered since the beginning of the war than had been anticipated. Nine dirigibles have been put out of action, but these have all been replaced and have been equipped with long-range guns.

Pronounced Dead by Physician, Revives

PORTLAND, Me., April 12.—Ernest T. Perkins, twenty-two years old, apparently dropped dead Sunday and a physician, after a prolonged attempt to revive him, was about to write a death certificate, assigning heart failure as the cause, when the supposed dead man suddenly began to revive and was soon able to talk. He was apparently much better today.

FIVE BOYS HELD AS ROBBERS

The five Dorchester youths, two fifteen years old, who formed a band of desperadoes, the police say, which was like the famous Fagin school were arraigned in the Dorchester court before Judge Joseph R. Churchill today and held in bonds ranging from $500 to $2,500 for hearings on April 26.

Frank J. Holloran, seventeen, who first gave his name as John F. Holloran of Greenwood place, Dorchester, was charged with attack with intent to kill Mrs. Elizabeth Lipsett of No. 88 Clarkson street and was held in $2,500 on this count and $800 each on charges of breaking and entering the homes of Mrs. Lipsett and C. H. Ware of No. 68 Brent street.

Bernard Downey, seventeen, of Kimball street, was held on the same charges; James Connally, fifteen, of Dorchester avenue, was held in $800 on the charge of breaking and entering the Warren house; George R. Hennessey, fifteen, of Kimball street, and Harry L. Newcomb, seventeen, also of Kimball street, were held in $800 respectively on the charge of breaking and entering the store of T. A. Mitchell of Ashmount.

Joseph Black of Adams street, who runs a tailor store where the police claim they found much of the missing property, was bailed out in $2,500 on the charge of receiving alleged stolen property.

The attack on Mrs. Lipsett, who was felled with a furnace wrench when she discovered two youthful burglars in her house, led to the discovery of the band.

The police claim the boys say they were incited to the robberies by Black, who acted as a "fence." About $2,000 of loot is believed to have been stolen and the police have already discovered a $200 violin and about $400 worth of other property.

By International News Service.

PARIS, April 13.—It was announced today that the government regarded its evidence against Raymond Swoboda sufficient to warrant his trial as a German spy. He will be tried by court-martial in Paris.

Governor Inspects Boston Harbor Forts

Governor Walsh and Adjutant-General Cole today inspected the forts of Boston Harbor as the guests of Colonel W. G. Haan, U. S. A., commanding the harbor defenses. They left Long Wharf in a government tug for their trip down the harbor.

Report Big Explosion at British Naval Base

ABERDEEN, April 13.—Many persons were killed in a terrible explosion at Lerwick, capital of the Shetlands, during the night. All the buildings in Harbour street were wrecked. No details of the explosion were given in the telegram to the Free Press from Lerwick. The town has about 4,000 inhabitants.

Dispatches from Aberdeen telling of the explosion at Lerwick were followed today by rumors that a German spy had blown up the Royal naval reserve station there.

As soon as news of the explosion reached here the government took over the telegraph lines into Scotland, making it difficult to secure any details of the disaster.

GREAT BRITISH NAVAL BASE AT LERWICK.

The area about the Shetland Islands has been the scene of extensive German submarine operations. Lerwick is the base of operations of the British fleet which has guarded the northerly passage to the North Sea and has prevented the German fleet from dashing out to the Atlantic by the northernmost route. Although a small town it has become, during the war one of the most important British naval stations.

The Shetlands are the northernmost British islands. They are northeasterly from the Orkney Islands, Kirkwall—the chief port of which—has been the harbor into which the British have taken all of their neutral merchant ship prizes.

At both Lerwick and Kirkwall vast naval stores, including ammunition, have been kept and numerous warships of the British fleet have been stationed. This accounts for the official secrecy concerning the explosion. Enormous damage to the British naval forces would be possible at these points.

Gertrude Atherton, Novelist, Very Ill

NEW YORK, April 13.—Gertrude Atherton, novelist, is severely ill in St. Luke's Hospital, where she has been since last Thursday, when she was removed from her home, No. 420 West 116th street, on the advice of Dr. Edward Devol. Mrs. Muriel A. Russell, a daughter of the writer, says that her mother is in no immediate danger. Mrs. Russell refused to tell the nature of the illness.

Wayfarer at Queenstown.

LONDON, April 13.—A news agency today announced the arrival at Queenstown of the Harrison liner Wayfarer, crippled by a torpedo from a German submarine.

Roxbury Boy Is Killed by a Truck

Fourteen-year-old Joseph Dinan was run over and killed today on Massachusetts avenue, Roxbury, by an auto truck loaded with granite monuments. The police, who arrested Charles W. Rogers of Brimfield street, Quincy, owner and driver of the truck, on a manslaughter charge, report that the boy was stealing a ride when the fatality occurred.

Young Dinan lived at No. 58 Clapp street, Roxbury. The auto truck was in front of No. 1010 Massachusetts avenue, near Magazine street, at the time. A passing automobile took the boy to the City Hospital, but he died before arriving there. The body was placed in the hospital morgue.

NEW DRIVE IN EAST BY GERMANS

LONDON, April 13.—A news agency dispatch from Amsterdam states that Field Marshal von Hindenburg has called for 300,000 reinforcements for a supreme attack upon Warsaw. The assault will soon begin, the dispatch adds.

By FRANCIS LAVELLE MURRAY,
Personal Correspondent of the International News Service.

PETROGRAD, April 13.—Emperor William is personally directing operations of the Austro-German armies in the Carpathians, according to a semi-official statement issued here today. This attributes the sudden offensive of the Teutonic armies to the arrival of the Kaiser at the front, and an order from him to cut through the Russian left wing in order to force an abandonment of the attacks being made upon the Austro-German position at Uzsok pass.

The Bourse Gazette's correspondent at Lemberg telegraphs that the Austrians, previously reported on the verge of complete retreat, have launched fierce attacks upon the Russians along the Stryj, Opor and Swica Rivers. To oppose these, rearrangement of the Russian line has been found necessary. Reinforcements are being rushed to this region, where the Austrians captured hill No.

British Censor Controls All War News of Allies

By JOHN C. FOSTER.
Personal Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, April 13.—England now controls all sources of the allies' war news, not only in her own country, but also in Russia and France. The English censor is supreme.

A few weeks ago reports were current that a German submarine had cut the lines of the French cable company running from France to the United States. This was incorrect. England had taken the final step to shut off all news except that which passed through her censor's hands.

For several months the English government officials were irritated by the fact that considerable news from Petrograd and Paris reached America without passing through London.

The French Cable Company is owned by France. As a result of the arrangement made by Paris and London officials, its traffic has been diverted to other lines because personnel filling messages in Paris disliked the idea of having their dispatches sent to London and then back to France for final transmission to the United States.

Some military secrets which the British War Office had concealed were revealed by Paris and Petrograd dispatches. This is now impossible. Dispatches from Petrograd to Paris can reach the United States only through London. Dispatches from Paris have to go via London to the United States. It is possible to get a war dispatch from Paris over the French cable, but it has to go to the censorial clearing house in London first.

REFERS TO SHELDON IN TRIAL

Henry S. Tuttle of Keene, N. H., former sheriff of Cheshire County and a beneficiary under the Louis Cabot will, testified at the $2,000,000 will hearing at Dedham today of a conversation which he said he had had with a man named Sheldon. He said:

"Sheldon said: 'I am from headquarters. We will give you in writing any statement you wish. We will give you any amount of money. We will give you money enough to take care of you the rest of your life. We want you to testify that Mr. Cabot said he wanted to make a will like the Hemenway will.'"

Tuttle said he knew Cabot more than twenty years and had gone hunting and fishing with him. Cabot bequeathed to him a homestead in Keene, formerly owned by his mother, and $2,500. In court today Tuttle was a witness for the $2,000,000 will to which Cabot's daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Vernon Briggs, seeks a share. He testified as to a telephone conversation he said he had with Attorney Tudor of counsel for the contestants.

"SHELDON CAME FROM KEENE."

"Tudor telephoned from Hancock on October 5, 1911," testified former Sheriff Tuttle. "He asked me if I would go to his office in Boston the following day. I told him if he had anything to say about the will he had better consult my lawyer, whose address I gave him. Three days later Sheldon came to Keene. I met him in the street. He said he had been at my house several times that morning.

"Sheldon said: 'I want to speak to you where nobody can hear us.' I suggested that we go to my house, but he said we had better go across the street. He then said: 'We don't want you to testify for the Cabot will.' He always used the word 'we.' I said: 'Mr. Sheldon, what do you mean?' He said: 'I am from headquarters. We will give you in writing any statement you wish. We will give you any amount of money. We will give you money enough to take care of you the rest of your life. I am going to see you again.' I saw him later. He said: 'We want you to testify that Mr. Cabot said he wanted to make a will like the Hemenway will.'"

He testified also concerning a visit which he said Dr. Briggs had paid of the contestant, made to his home last October.

"WOULD GET MY LEGACY."

"Dr. Briggs said to me: 'I understand you are to be a witness at the will hearing.' I asked how he knew. He replied: 'I know you are going to testify that one of Mr. Cabot's sons-in-law is no good. Now Polly (Dr. Briggs' wife) has spent no more money than you or I.'

"Dr. Briggs assured me I would get my legacy. He said he had never been in anything that was not right. I told Dr. Briggs I wanted to know what his man Sheldon had come to me for and why he should have offered me a large sum of money to testify. He told me I would have to see Mr. Tudor about that."

MRS. HARRIMAN 'ILL'; COURT WAITS

NEW YORK, April 13.—Mrs. E. H. Harriman, widow of the railroad financier, failed to appear in the Brooklyn Supreme Court to answer to a subpoena to testify in the suit of Miss Sarah Lynch against the Mutual Life Insurance Company. Justice Boulder was told by the company's attorney that Mrs. Harriman was ill.

The Justice adjourned the trial of the case until today and appointed Dr. Julius Bierwith to visit Mrs. Harriman and learn if she was ill too ill to appear.

Telephone inquiry regarding the nature of Mrs. Harriman's illness was made at the Harriman home at No. 1 East Sixty-ninth street. A servant who answered the telephone said Mrs. Harriman was out and that he understood that she had gone to a theatre. She had been out walking in the afternoon, it was said. The servant said he didn't know anything about the case in Brooklyn.

From another source it was suggested Mrs. Harriman did not appear in court because the date of the subpoena looked as much like "April 12" as "April 13."

Prisoner Held for $100 Theft in Prison Van

Stanley Buxton is only eighteen years old, but he has the police staggered, for they declare that the lad managed to get Adjt. Adam Ritchie's pocket of $100 while the two, with other prisoners, were being taken from court to Charles Street Jail in the prison van.

Stanley was in the city court yesterday, charged with stealing an automobile and taking it to Worcester, where he left it. The case was continued to Thursday. In the dock with Stanley yesterday was Ritchie, who was given four months in jail for annoying a woman.

Ritchie had $295 on him when he started in the van to jail. Stanley went to the jail, held in jail until his next hearing Thursday. But when the prisoners tumbled out of the van at the jail Ritchie howled that $100 of his roll of money was missing. The police say they found the $100 on Stanley. So the youth was in the dock again today. This charge, like the original one, was continued until Thursday.

Refuse Use of Taunton School for Suffrage

Boston woman suffragists have been barred from holding meetings at Taunton schoolhouses.

Mrs. Harriet Burton Laidly of Boston was booked to speak in the Hopewell High School of that city, April 22, on "The Educational Side of Woman's Suffrage."

The meeting was arranged by the Board of Trade of that city under the direction of Hymen B. Swig, an anti-suffrage resident of Worcester, but when the advocates of suffrage should be heard.

But the school committee told Swig that the subject of woman's suffrage had no educational value to the city, and the hall could not be used for that purpose.

The election of the school committee has upset Swig, and in an open letter to the school committee, he says:

Some of us are born fools, but there are many things that we cannot understand. To understand the school committee of this city would require the wisdom of Solomon and the patience of Job."

NEW GERMAN DRIVE IN EAST

General Alexander Linsingen of the German army, with 280,000 soldiers, is confining the Styrj region operations, having superseded the Austrian commander there. He has under his control five armies.

Simultaneously with the offensive in the Styrj region of Galicia the Germans in Northern Poland have reopened their attacks along the Narew-Bobr front, again shelling Ossowiec and trying to pierce the Russian line at Jedwabno. The following statement on operations in this district was issued here today:

"The Germans bombarded the fortress of Ossowiec from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. with eight-inch mortars Sunday. The fortress replied effectively.

"The Germans sent four fire ships in the form of rafts against the Ossowiec forts. Some were blown up by the fire of the forts. Others failed to reach their destination.

"In the region of Jedwabno violent trench fighting occurred yesterday. Bomb throwers were used to some extent.

"Small engagements occurred near the village of Bronierze, on the right bank of the Vistula. We captured near Demlin on the Narew a German aeroplane and two aviators.

"Near Suwalki we captured four German machine guns and a number of prisoners."

Analyzing the situation in the Carpathians, the military expert of the Bourse Gazette, said today:

"The Russians are continuing their march to the Hungarian plains, creating vast alarm at Budapest and Vienna. The danger of the dual monarchy has reached an acute stage. The events of the next few days possibly will have an enormous effect upon the whole future Austrian campaign.

"The Austrian attempt to drive a wedge between the Russian troops advancing in Hungary and Galicia has failed, judging from the large number of prisoners in Russian hands.

"The desperate situation is recognized by the enemy, who is gathering troops from the Vistula, Narew, South Germany and the Italian frontier."

SEEK AUTHORSHIP OF GERMAN NOTE

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The extraordinary memorandum attacking the neutrality of the United States, filed with the State Department by Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, was taken up by President Wilson and his Cabinet today.

Administration officials continued to handle the situation guardedly, indicating plainly by their manner that they considered it to hold grave possibilities. Nothing official was forthcoming except the statement by Secretary of State Bryan that the matter was "under consideration."

It was understood that the administration would suspend action pending receipt of real information as to whether the unusual language used by the ambassador in the note to the State Department was sanctioned by the Berlin foreign office.

Much will depend on this phase of the incident, it was stated, and a report from Ambassador Gerard was awaited earnestly. Should the German government stand by the action of Count von Bernstorff it was conceded a serious issue would be created. What the result of such an issue would be no one connected with the State Department would venture to predict. The hope was general, therefore, in official circles, that the Kaiser's government would disclaim responsibility for the discourteous wording of the ambassador's communication.

The government is clearly irritated at the publicity given by Count von Bernstorff to the recent diplomatic negotiations. President Wilson stated to callers today that he did not know officially whether the recent note delivered by the German ambassador to the State Department had the authority of the German government behind it or represented only the ambassador's personal views.

Carranzistas Again Fire Over Texas Border

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Carranzistas at Nuevo Laredo, while celebrating a reported victory over Villistas, thirty miles south of the town, fired across the border, General Funston today reported to the War Department. His message was based on advices from General Evans at Laredo, Tex., who said the Mexicans agreed to stop their promiscuous shooting after Evans had sent a warning to them.

General Hockkorn, at Brownsville, reported considerable firing Sunday night and early Monday morning in front of the trenches to the west of Matamoras.

Acting Secretary of War Breckinridge has ordered the transport Sumner to Tampico to bring back Americans.

Announcement was made at Villista headquarters in Juarez today that General Villa, at the head of 25,000 men, had opened an attack on an army of 20,000 commanded by General Obregon, and entrenched at Celaya. It was stated that the artillery, under command of General Felipe Angeles, began a bombardment of Celaya last evening after General Obregon had refused to lend his army into the open country to avoid a bombardment of the town.

SALEM MAN WILLS NURSE FORTUNE

Miss Nellie B. Willett of Salem, who for eleven years acted as housekeeper for William Maynes, who died last December, has been left a portion of his estate.

Dispatches from Saco, Me., where she is now staying, state that her share in the estate will amount to nearly a $1,000,000. Court officials, who say they have read the will, declare that he left the major portion of his estate to his brother, John Haynes, who is named as executor, and that the bequest to Miss Willett consists of an annuity of $1,200.

MRS. MADELINE EDISON SLOANE, who is to name submarine having father's device, being built at Portsmouth, N. H.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., April 13.—Mrs. Joyn Eyre Sloan, daughter of Thomas A. Edison, has accepted the invitation of Secretary Daniels to christen the L-8, a submarine being built here. This boat will be the first submarine to carry the Edison storage battery. So far as the battery is concerned the submarine will be able to stay under water indefinitely. Mr. Edison will give his invention to all navies.

The boat will have a record undersea steaming radius, and the apparatus built by Edison will enable its crew to live for a period of 100 days at the bottom of the sea if the craft should meet with an accident similar to that which disabled the F-4 in Honolulu Harbor.

The announcement was made by Miller Reese Hutchison, personal representative of Mr. Edison.

It is asserted the Edison batteries will eliminate danger to the crew from chlorine and sulphuric acid gas poisoning.

BIG SHOE BOOM IN BAY STATE TOWNS

The European war is bringing prosperity to manufacturing cities and towns of New England.

The latest example of this is a sudden rush of business in Marlboro, Natick and Spencer, where a record order for footwear, totalling 4,500,000 shoes, is keeping four big plants in a whirl of activity.

The shoes are being made for the Russian government. The three manufacturing plants participating in the big order are:

Rice & Hutchins of Marlboro.
S. H. Howe of Marlboro.
C. W. Dean of Natick.
Isaac Prouty Co. of Spencer.

2,000 MEN BUSY.

It is estimated that this Russian government contract will keep 2,000 shoe workmen busy for the next five months, counting all the lines of work required to turn out the shoes, from the time the hide is cut to the packing of the finished product.

One of these four concerns named is handling three-quarters of the order. The other quarter, comprising a million shoes, is in the hands of the three other plants.

Marlboro, where the Rice & Hutchins and S. H. Howe factories are located, will be particularly busy. Natick and Spencer will also have greatly increased work for its factory employes on account of this Russian order.

It is understood that the contracts call for complete delivery in four to six months. The shoes are to have heavy, black-oiled soles. The uppers withstand the terrific wear given them by the Russian soldiers in their rough marching, trench life and actual engagements. Many of the shoes are to have canvas uppers. The uppers are to be made of what is technically known in the leather trade as "natural colored waxed splits," meaning russet leather.

BIG LEATHER SALES.

This order for 4,000,000 shoes large as it is, is not the only advantage to American industries involved. Large sales are reported from Chicago of leather from which the shoes are to be made. "Rough splits" jumped 2 and 3 cents in the leather market. Flexible innersoling and pickled splits advanced.

Boston wholesalers of hides and uppers handled considerable of this leather sale to the manufacturers. A turn-over of 500 tons of wax splits for the Russian army shoes is reported from the Boston leather market.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter, commenting on this Russian order, says:

"If the first orders delivered to Russia prove satisfactory, it is more than likely that an order of huge proportions will be developed."

One end of the bowl will be blocked off to accommodate 14,000 spectators and extensive scenic arrangements will also be made. The event falls on the same date as the Yale-Harvard dual track meet at Yale field.

THE WEEK'S ATTRACTIONS FOR THE THEATRE GOERS OF GREATER BOSTON

ABORN COMPANY SINGS 'LOHENGRIN'

The second week of opera in English at the Boston Theatre, under the management of the Aborn English Grand Opera company, opened last night with a splendid presentation of "Lohengrin." The house was well filled with a very appreciative audience.

The impression given by last night's production was that the Aborns have now at their command one of the finest opera companies heard here in English performances of opera in many years.

Morgan Kingston, who made his American debut in "Aida" in New York last year, proved himself last night a thoroughly admirable example of the heroic tenor in the part of "Lohengrin," Knight of the Holy Grail. He captivated the audience and was obliged to respond to encore after encore.

He had a praiseworthy associate in Bettina Freeman, who interpreted Elsa of Brabant. Her singing, as usual, was of the highest order. Alfred Kaufman, as Henry I., King of Germany, with his wonderfully pleasing basso voice, also scored. Others in the cast who helped in making the production an able and proficient were John Graham, as Telramund, a noble of Brabant; Gertrude Francis, as Ortrud, wife of Telramund; Gabriel D'Angelo as the herald, Jeannette Kann, as Gottfried, Elsa's brother; and the four pages, Belle Bowman, Louise Ames, Catherine Reed and Maria Brath.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week the company will present "Il Trovatore." Josef Pasternack conducted last night in his unique and clever manner. The work of the orchestra was excellent and showed considerable rehearsing.

Plymouth Theatre

Last night of the Plymouth Theatre "The Son of David," Stephen Phillipps' romantic drama of the seventeenth century, began the last week of its engagement.

DOROTHY YOUNG AT-WELL, who is to make her debut as an actress in Chicago.

Hollis Street Theatre.

Ethel Barrymore has a new play in which she will be seen at the Hollis Street Theatre beginning next Monday evening. It is entitled "The Shadow," and it has just closed a long engagement in New York city.

STEPDAUGHTER OF NORDICA TO ACT

The lure of the stage has finally led Dorothy Young, stepdaughter of the late Madame Nordica, to adopt a professional career, and her stage debut will be made at the Garrick Theatre in Chicago next month, when she will appear in an important rôle in teh new Joseph Santley musical fantasy, "All Over Town." In the same company will be her husband, Roy Atwell, the comedian.

All theatregoers will recall the elopement two years ago when Atwell was appearing in "The Firefly" at the Castle. It had been a dance at the Ritz and two weeks later eloped, "but not without the parental consent," according to Mr. Atwell.

Gaiety Theatre

The Watson Sisters at the head of their own company were given a rousing reception at the Gaiety Theatre yesterday afternoon and last evening, this being the first appearance here in two years. The house was full at both performances and "Those Two Girls" certainly added to their popularity if such a thing were possible. They gave a full account of themselves at all times and are two of the cleverest burlesquers that make their stage here twenty-five years ago. Their work is snappy and up to the minute to every respect. "Morocco Bound" is a lively skit with an abundance of music of the kind that makes the audience leave the house humming some of the tunes.

With Fanny and Kitty Watson are several first class supporters. Chief among them is Ben Pierce, a Boston man, who now is appearing at the Gaiety patrons. He carries the burden of the fun making, and he showed that he is as clever as ever. As a German he is considered among the very best. Will Rine in "Lew Williams, whose work is a factor in keeping up the fun. Jack McGowan, the juvenile man of the show, is a singer of more than ordinary ability, and A. Hilliar's best work is a dancing number which is exceptionally good. Charles Hutton, as an Oriental, does commendable work.

The chorus is made up of many pretty girls. They are about the best singing and dancing body seen here this season. The stage settings are worthy of a much better class, especially the second act, which represents a Turkish harem and which won applause when the curtain went up.

St. James Theatre.

An all star vaudeville show was staged at the St. James Theatre yesterday. The headline honors were given to the Rolands and Powers, who presented a surprise playlet entitled "Tricked." Others were the Brooklyn Comedy Four, a quartette of comedians, who offered new comedy and songs. Black and White, a pair of pretty girl acrobats, pleased with their specialty. Ray Conlin delighted with the large audience with his xylophonist novelty. Gerard and West pleased with their singing and talking skit. Many other features were also shown, together with Jess Willard in a photo drama entitled "The Heart Punch." The Exploits of Elaine was also shown.

BRILLIANT BILL AT B. F. KEITH'S

The bill at Keith's Theatre this week is one of exceeding brilliancy. The headliner is a Jesse Lasky production—and you know that means a lot of pretty girls who can sing dance and sing. Gladys Clark and Henry Bergman are the dancing-singing stars who, though chauffeur and maid, essay to impersonate Mr. and Mrs. Beasle and teach a group of society buds, of course, quality for beauty. The comedy is advanced by Jack Claire and Vincent Erne.

Nanna and Bonnie Thornton are here—Bonnie younger than ever, though she admits she is a very-three and Nanna as dancer-like as when they both appeared on the old Bijou stage here twenty-five years ago.

"Princess Rajah" appeared in an absorbing dance in which as Cleopatra she died before the statue of Marc Antony, then was overtaken with remorse and permitted the asp to sting her—all according to history.

Karl Jorn of the Metropolitan Opera Company tenor selections from opera. Hermine Shone and company presented "The Last of the Quakers," a one-act comedy. Elwin George pretended to juggle but mostly talked, which is the way he does it. Miss May Dooley, Elmer Graham and Gordon Dooley offered a conglomeration of acting. The Herbert Germaine Trio, as gymnasts, presented an attractive act.

Waldron's Casino

It is difficult to foresee how fair theatrical managers will be able to go to the matter of putting together what are technically known as "big shows" to satisfy the ever growing demand of the public. The smaller entertainments, which formerly satisfied amusement patrons, are rapidly disappearing, their places being taken by organizations, which for numerical strength and pictorial and sartorial splendor and pictorial and thought quite beyond the possibilities of a prophet a few years ago.

Ben Welch and his New Show are in the big show class. They are at Waldron's Casino all the week. Welch is a host in himself. The list of players besides Mr. Welch includes Florence Rother, Minnie "Bud" Harrison, George Douglas, Freda Pierson, Mabel Howard, Pat Kearney, Frank P. Murphy, Vic Cameron, 20 American Zouaves and a singing and dancing chorus of twenty-four, with an augmented orchestra under the direction of Joe Speigel.

Globe Theatre.

That beautiful dance star, Madame Harrison and her Balalaika Orchestra of fourteen musicians, headed one of the season's best shows at the Globe Theatre. Her offering was well received. Others to appear was that popular trio, Brown, Harris and Brown. Great Santoil, who styles himself the international athlete, lived up to his billing. Frank Ward amused with his original offering. Mr. and Mrs. Cappelli pleased with their comedy singing and talking act. The added feature was Jess Willard in a photo drama entitled "The Heart Punch." The Exploits of Elaine was also shown.

Dansants at Arena Drawing Big Crowds

The dansants at the Boston Arena have taken a strong hold on the lovers of modern dancing and large crowds are turning out each night to participate in the dancing and witness the high class exhibitions.

The Arena management has arranged many special features for every evening except Tuesday. Miss Helene Sweeny and Zenas Crocker, the Arena professionals, will give exhibitions each evening. The exhibition last night was a repetition of the huge success scored by this graceful pair Saturday night.

Tremont Theatre.

David W. Griffith is so pleased with the enthusiastic reception given by the large audiences at the Tremont Theatre to "The Birth of a Nation," that he intends to make a $10,000 feature as his next great film. The subject will be based on the Holy Grail and will engage in the public library, subject to the approval of the trustees of the granting of which is by the Edwin A. Abbey estate.

Horace G. Wadlin, the librarian, thought well of the plan when spoken to yesterday, but as the rights of reproduction are controlled by Mrs. Edwin A. Abbey, the artist's widow, and Curtis and Cameron, Mr. Griffith has addressed a letter to Charles Scribner, the New York publisher, who is Mrs. Abbey's business agent, who manages her affairs, opening negotiations for the motion reproductions.

It is very unlikely that a great historical picture such as "The Birth of a Nation," with its epic treatment of Civil War events, can be duplicated or even approached for a long time. It is the director's preference to return to some peace theme for his next film, his other great film, "Judith of Bethulia," founded on Thomas Bailey Aldrich's poem.

Howard Athenaeum.

Jack Willard was seen in "The Heart Punch," a moving picture that shows him in action at the Howard Athenaeum. The burlesque offering is contributed by the Jolly Girls and features Ida Small, Jane Canfield, Dorothy Barnes, Ollie Oden, Emma Cook and a host of other favorites. The show is the winner from the roll of the card and in the house continuous hilt the Five Merry Young-sters topped the bill in a clever dancing specialty. Others included the Athenaeum Comedy Four, Frank Whitman, violinist; Ed Winchester, musical monologist; Cornelia and Sherman, singers and acrobatic dancers; Ashborn's comedy dog and animal circus; Charles Fletcher, merry mimic. The show is one that appeals to all patrons of burlesque and vaudeville.

Modern Theatre

The popularity of Theda Bara, the brilliant actress of the Fox film stock company, was demonstrated yesterday when she made her reappearance before capacity audiences at the Modern Theatre in a wonderful photo-adaptation of Alexandre Dumas' masterpiece, "The Clemenceau Case." The character in which Miss Bara appears affords her an opportunity to display to the full extent her remarkable genius. In fact, her work yesterday as Jaz, the beautiful woman with the heartless soul, whose diversion is turning men on to love and ruin, was even superior to her former wonderful characterization of "The vampire woman." The piece is presented in five stirring parts and all of the characters are superbly portrayed.

DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is in the blood, the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy 2½ grains of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal activity, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by those subject to uric acid troubles who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Advertisement.

This Liquid Attacks Hair Under the Skin

To gain control of coarse, bristly growths which have been caused by the unwise use of pastes, rubber preparations and other things which merely remove hair from the surface of the skin, you must use De Miracle, the original liquid hair remover. Art de la Mode says: "De Miracle is 'the best method.'" Only publications of the highest character are quoted by us. Because of so-called hair removers which are supposedly recommended through legit quotations from so-called magazines which do not exist.—Advertisement.

'A MODERN EVE' AT CORT THEATRE

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Spring has come. Hear the little birdies sing and see what has alighted at the Cort Theatre in Park square. It is called "A Modern Eve," and it might just as well be styled "September Morn" for all the title has to do with the entertainment.

It is a German comic opera which has been passed through one of those separating machines in the Chicago stock yards and been reassembled to suit the taste of folks that drink the waters of Lake Michigan. During the rebuilding process they removed huge slices of the original plot, and sprinkled in numerous songs and leggs that are calculated to make the American public laugh its silly head off. Fortunately, Harry Askin, the producer, has been able to secure a very remarkable cast. The piece is full of clever people and full that some of them haven't much to do.

There is Hazel Cox, a very stunning blonde, who looks about six feet, who sings well in full of fun and seems very nice indeed. She is supposed to be a very naughty adventuress. It's worth the price of admission just to gaze upon her, but if you set a lot of store upon your money, why, you may also regard Dorothy Welsh, dainty little ingenue who dances divinely, sings sweetly and does other pretty things. And there is Lelia Hughes, a blonde beauty, who would be the heroine if there were any plot, and a very beautiful voice, charming manners and is around quite a lot.

Of course you remember Georgie Drew Mendum, that quaint comedienne. She is in the show. She plays a suffrage mother with much dash and considerable humor.

And there is a large chorus, containing an unusual proportion of bloom, and wearing expensive looking costumes.

For the men we have William Norris, a favorite for lo, these many years, doing his old stunts with as much success as ever. He is a henpecked husband who is a devil among the girls when his wife is away.

Alexander Clark, another old friend, is funny but hasn't enough to do, and Cyril Chadwick, the tall youth who plays an Englishman so amusingly, is also among those present. For a leading man we have Ernest Gleadinning, last seen here in the lead of "Wanted, $22,000," one of Georgie Cohan's few divvers, and a very capable actor.

The reason I dwell thus at length upon the cast is because they are the show. Take a group of people like that and they would do a lot for a funeral. "A Modern Eve" in their hands becomes a bright, amusing little affair. There are at least four or five bully songs, including "I'm Waiting for You," "When Love Comes Stealing" and "Goodbye Everything," a waltz song, which crops up throughout the piece; "A Quiet Evening at Home" and "Because Me."

The people there last night laughed a lot, applauded a lot and I'll say some of them say, "It's a bully good show." So what's the use of criticising it?

Orpheum Theatre.

Heading the big show at the Orpheum yesterday was Alice Hanson, who made a decided hit with her original comedy songs. Sharing honors with Miss Hanson was the Cameron DeVitt Company, in a comedy farce sketch entitled "The Groom Forgot." Others were the Nichols Nelson Troupe, in a wonderful jungling specialty. Miss Blanche Leslie delighted the large audiences with her repertoire of songs. Cunningham and Marcus amused with their eccentric acrobat novelty. Belle and Jones pleased with their singing and talking skit. Oddone delighted with his musical novelty. Santy Brothers offered thrilling aerial work. An added feature was Jess Willard in a photo drama entitled "The Heart Punch." The Exploits of Elaine were also on the bill.

"The Younger Generation"

"The Younger Generation," Stanley Houghton's delightful refreshing comedy in three acts, will be presented for the first time in Boston on next Friday evening by Claude Beerbohm's English company at the Plymouth Theatre.

Plays That Remain

SHUBERT THEATRE— "Tonight's the Night" began the second week at the Shubert last night. The big English opera has caught on very decidedly and crowded houses prevail.

TREMONT THEATRE—Griffith's big picture, "The Birth of a Nation," has amazed the critics who said Boston wouldn't pay theatre prices for a motion picture and is packing the Tremont at every performance.

MAJESTIC THEATRE — "The Blue Bird," Maurice Maeterlinck's masterpiece, begins its second and last week at the Majestic Theatre. This charming and unusual play for children and grown-ups is being presented by the original company.

WILBUR THEATRE—"A Pair of Sixes" is just as popular as ever, and this day of its departure from Boston is far distant. Judging by the way the attendance keeps up.

CASTLE SQUARE — "Common Clay," the most remarkable play of the season in Boston, continues its equally remarkable run at the Castle. If the players can stand the pace this one reason why it can't run all summer.

HOLLIS ST. THEATRE—On its return engagement in Boston, "The Little Cafe" is proving to be as great a laugh-getter as when it first upset the risibilities of local playgoers, during its visit to these parts last season.

Scollay Square Olympia.

Any number on the long program offered by the Scollay Square Olympia this week might be termed a "headliner." At both performances yesterday capacity audiences greeted each offering with genuine enthusiasm. By far the most unique and one might say novel offering was the appearance of the Olympia Festival Chorus, an organization of nearly fifty soloists, that rendered popular and classical selections with rare excellence. The company is directed by Richard Henry Warren, who assisted at the keyboard of the huge organ.

The rest of the vaudeville is made up of excellent variety and includes Abe Marks and company in a clever little sketch entitled, "The Girl, the Fighter and the Peddler"; Dinan Wakefield and company in an interesting playlet called "A Romance of Chinatown," "The Telegraph Four," a quartette of entertainers, Zanetton, aerial artist, Charles R. Sweet and Beatrice Morrell company, another good offering. The pictures, as usual, were good.

Colonial Theatre.

Christie MacDonald and "Sweethearts" have already proved their popularity in Boston at the Colonial Theatre, for it was at this house that the original presentation was given, she comes next Monday for a single week.

'CHANGE' IS BILL AT TOY THEATRE

The Toy Theatre audience was treated to real, vital, elemental life last night with a play called "Change," partaking of the soil, of Welsh coal mines, of the old pitted against the new, of deep yearning mother love and stubborn, unrelenting—almost—fatherly "duty."

The four-act drama "Change" is the dramatization of a story, the principal fact of which, the killing of Gwilym, is taken from the actual fact during a recent strike in Wales.

J. O. Francis, the author, struck deep and true, and has written a play of absorbing human interest with all the color and life of scenes in the living room of a Welsh miner. In this one plain home occurs a sample of the modern labor conflict, together with a tragic example of "Change" that can't run all through the souls of young people of today who feel the ideals of more just economic conditions.

The Welsh miner, John Price — father of three sons, one of whom is shot in the strike, another who turns a direct action socialist, and a third who loses faith in the church—was played by Ernest Gove, a Welshman, who grew up in the district in which the story is laid. With such a background and with a dialect not assumed, Gove produced upon the spectators the illusion of sincerity and reality which succeeded in sustaining interest to the end.

This stubborn Welshman turns one son out of his house for unbelief, and brands a second as murderer. He has no sympathy for nor understanding of, new ideas that fill the heads of his boys and sees nothing but ruin and wreckage as the result. If his life of sacrifice

The wife, excellently played by Miss Ruth Delano, allows no sense of stern duty to interfere with her mother affection, and her triumph at the end when her "immovable" husband is finally overcome with remorse—makes a scene that sends the audience home with some bit of comfort.

Irvine Pitchel, who is still new to the professional stage, sustained the part of the syndicalist son with a fair amount of conviction.

Upon the whole the play "Change" will rank as one of the best rounded productions yet put on at the Toy. It will run until next Thursday.

Exeter Street Theatre

The feature picture at the Exeter Street Theatre the first part of this week is "Sunshine Molly," with Louis Wolheim in the leading part. Edith Wynn Mathison will appear in "The Governor's Lady" the last part of the week. In addition to the films there is an attractive program of other features.

PRESS CLUB BOYS SING WITH SUNDAY

PATERSON, N. J., April 12.—Billy Sunday, among the remarkable things he has done since his arrival, established a precedent on his day off by conducting the first hymn song service in the history of the New York Press Club.

Accompanied by "Ma" Sunday, Rhody, the choir leader and Ackley the piano accompanist, trailed by the "war correspondents" who have been covering the Paterson revival meetings, Sunday took his first trip to New York in over fifteen years. He first called on Mayor Mitchel, then lunched, and after his "revival" at the Press Club took a little "private joy ride" with "Ma" Sunday.

Wherever Sunday and his followers went, crowds followed, cheering him and making his arrival in New York city something of an event. The Sunday party had to fight, nearly, to get through the crowd to the Press Club.

The auditorium of the club was packed. Sunday went to the platform, where a table had been securely fastened in anticipation of any of his acrobatic stunts, and Rhody and Ackley went to the piano.

The business-like preparations of Rhody and Ackley intrigued the newspaper men. After President Howard of the club introduced Sunday's followers Rhody immediately opened the song service.

"Now we are going to have a little singing," laughed Rhody. "These fellows over in the corner who have been covering the revival in Paterson," he continued, "are going to be the choir and when they begin you follow right along after."

The crowd roared and Sunday laughed most of all.

ALL PITCH IN.

"We are going to sing a hymn that seems to be one of the favorites at the Paterson services," resumed Rhody nonchalantly. "It's called 'If Your Heart Beats Right.' Now come on, you choir." The whole crowd pitched in making their best attempt at it. A second time and they had it and a third time it was an established fact that New York editors and reporters could sing some.

A new atmosphere had opened like magic. Everybody was laughing.

"And now we'll have another," shouted Rhody.

"Number 40," shouted one of the New York reporters. The crowd doubled up. The hymn was "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," and when order was restored the crowd learned that with one try and they sang it over and over.

Rhody had things his own way now and he began regular tabernacle stunts.

He made the newspaper men covering the revival at Paterson sing the first line, the men up against the right wall, the second line, the men on the opposite side of the house the third line and the men crowding against the back wall the last. And thus the song rolled around the place. Then everybody roared it out again.

The crowd cheered and shouted for more, but Sunday had a later appointment and it was time to stop the first hymn song service in the history of the New York Press Club.

"It is an extreme pleasure to speak to the members of the newspaper profession, which I consider one of the greatest, if not the greatest, moral force on the face of this old world. Individual fights for decency depend on the newspapers, whether that fight is waged by the individual or an organization.

"VOICE OF THE PEOPLE."

"The newspaper can clean up any community. Public sentiment is coming to the golden rule. Newspapers are the mouthpieces of the people in the passage and enforcement of laws, and when laws are passed and enforced it shows that public sentiment has been at work. When laws are passed and not enforced it shows that public sentiment is asleep. The wish of the people is determined by the class of men elected.

HAVE BEAUTIFUL, WAVING HAIR

Haven't you often wished for something to put on your hair to make the curl stay in so that you wouldn't have to bother curling it every time you wished to dress the hair? Well, here it is:

Glorid Waveine used to moisten the hair before kids or irons are used will produce an almost permanent wave or curl. When you shampoo the hair, if you will use this liquid before curling it will not be necessary to curl the hair again before the next washing which would ordinarily be in about two weeks, unless your hair is very oily and naturally straight. In that case, it may require curling two or three times. There's nothing harmful in this simple liquid, and it leaves the hair soft and fluffy.

All Glorid Creams, Shampoo, Face Powder, Tonique Astringent, etc., are guaranteed to give satisfaction, and many thousands of people are using them and are highly pleased with results—Advertisement.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It is said that every third person is troubled with catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh indicates a weakened condition of the body; that the secretions of the mucous membranes are quickly affected, and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood and improving your general condition with thetoil-food in Scott's Emulsion, which is a medicinal-food and a building-tonic, free from alcohol or harmful drugs.

Scott's Emulsion is not a patent medicine but a concentrated medicinal food, prescribed by the best physicians for forty years.

$2,500 IN JEWELS ON PRISONER

Lieutenant Mulligan and officers of the Court square station received somewhat of a shock today when they discovered on a man whom they were searching, and who was charged with drunkenness, diamonds valued at $2,500.

The man claimed to be a western ranch owner. He conversed with the officers in true western style and displayed with much bravado his costly collection. In his pocket was a ring valued at $1,400. In his necktie a stud valued at $1,000. Upon his watch chain there was a stud worth $100.

He explained to the police that he was in Boston on a business trip, part of his collection, it is said, to be the only one of its kind in the country. He was arrested last night after being complained of by the management of a hotel.

Soapsuds Save Life of Would-be Suicide

Iodine and a blighted romance almost caused the death of Motorman Harold L. McDonald, twenty-three, at his brother's house, No. 159 Webster street, Malden, when he swallowed a quantity of the deodorized chemical "because he was disappointed in love," according to the police. His life was saved when he was forced to drink soapsuds.

Would Teach Old-Fashioned Housekeeping

The West Somerville Civic Association holds that high school girls should be taught good old-fashioned housekeeping, as that is a part of home life.

The association, by a vote of 18 to 2, has adopted the following report of its committee on education:

"It is the opinion of the committee that domestic arts should be taught every girl student at the high school, as every girl should know how to keep the house and perform the work essential to the home life."

The association also urges that the school board tabulate the occupations of boys after high school, so that school work may "deal with the essential and fundamental matters underlying these pursuits."

The committee on education, which thinks the girls should learn housekeeping, is composed of Professor George M. Harmon of Tufts College, former Alderman James W. Kenney and Orville S. Waldron.

GROOM ILL, REVEAL AUGUST WEDDING

HAVERHILL, April 12. — Two secret marriages have just been revealed here, one of which, since August, it was planned not to reveal for a year. The latter was discovered as a result of the sudden illness of Henry L. Cahill, a leather salesman for a Boston concern.

Mr. Cahill was removed to the isolation hospital, suffering from scarlet fever, and when the papers were being made out by the physicians, they learned he was married.

In August last, when he started on a vacation trip to Maine, he waited at Portland for Miss Lena Pegley. When she arrived they went to the rectory of St. Mary's Church in Augusta, where they were married. They visited various points of interest in Maine, and upon their return to this city took up their respective duties in their former homes.

A second wedding surprise was not received by Mrs. William H. Saunders of No. 12 Bristol st., when she answered her telephone and heard her son John's declaration that he had been married to Irene Hebert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hebert. They left yesterday on what was thought to be a trip to Boston, where each was to visit relatives.

100 New Pianos Worth $350 Each Will Be Sold at $229.75 EACH

A Saving of $12,025 Will Be Divided Among 100 New England Buyers. When the doors of this store open tomorrow morning a new kind of a piano sale will be offered to New England people—unprecedented, as far as we know in piano selling.

One hundred Pianos worth $350 each go into the sale at..... $229.75 Each

After First Payment
Pay Only $1.25 A WEEK

A Piano Sale

That Opens a New Page in Piano Selling

HERE'S the story in a nutshell—one of the oldest and best-known Piano Factories in New England would now have been closed, and its employes idle, if this great store had not stepped into the breach and offered to pay the maker actual cost for Pianos and Player-Pianos, to keep his factory running and his operatives busy. We did it—and now

We're going to sell fine New England-made pianos at lower prices than they've ever been sold before and on such liberal terms that no one need be without one

WE reason that if people can buy standard pianos NOW for less money than they ever paid before on terms that couldn't be more liberal if they wrote them themselves They'll buy them.

While this talk about hard times is mostly bug-a-boo, a lot of people have listened to it and have put off buying a piano—but those people are going to buy a piano or player-piano NOW, in spite of war talk, hard times or anything else.

Because:

¶ They can buy fine pianos built by experienced New England makers at lower prices than they've ever been offered before.

¶ They can get the most liberal terms of payment ever known in the piano business.

¶ The R. H. White Co. jointly guarantee with the makers these pianos against any defects in material or workmanship. If such defects develop they will be repaired free of charge or will be replaced with a new one of like grade, without a penny of cost to the owner.

And there are
50 Player-Pianos Worth $550.00 EACH That Will Be Sold for $397.50 EACH.
Remember—only 50 of them and we were mighty lucky to get that many. The first 50 people that come will be the lucky ones—we couldn't get any more at this low price for love or money.
Terms as low as $2.50 a week after first payment.

WE don't believe there is such a thing as hard times. The war scares haven't hurt our business a bit, but the piano business has been "hit" because of "hard-times talk" that people have been hearing—so we've met conditions as we found them, with the result that

When you come to buy your piano tomorrow, you're going to secure a beautiful standard instrument (Made in a New England factory, as only New Englanders can make them) at the lowest price ever named. You're going to be given a binding guarantee by this company and you can pay for the piano at the rate of $1.25 a week.

If there's a reason in the world why you should not buy a piano now—if there's anything more we can do to make it easy for you to own a piano—let us know it.

Our object in going into this sale was to keep a great New England factory running and to make friends for the R. H. White Company by giving them extraordinary piano values.

We're going to sell more pianos and player-pianos tomorrow than any other New England piano store ever sold in one day. There isn't a doubt about that. It's a plain open-and-shut business proposition for people to buy pianos under conditions that will probably never again be possible.

We've told you about it, so it won't be our fault if you fail to get yours.

R. H. WHITE COMPANY.
Kindly mail me full details of your wonderful piano sale at once, with understanding that it does not obligate me in any way.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop itching scalp and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hair has disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Advertisement.

Red Blood for Pale People!

A big supply of red blood corpuscles is what helps to make any man or woman have a healthy, pink complexion and cheery red lips. Bowel to pump and purify are likewise necessary and, besides that, are harmful. Three-grain hypo-sulfate tablets, if used regularly for several months, seem to create a greatly added number of millions to the red and white corpuscles of the blood, and not only improve the color, but add increased flesh to the thin and frail body. These tablets promote assimilation, absorption and digestion, and this gives did aid to nature's forces transform the complexion and figure. They are prescribed by physicians, but being of a perfectly harmless character, self-administration is being followed up many, who obtain them direct from any responsible apothecary then.—Advertisement.

Their Married Life

Helen Meets a Disagreeable Man and Calls on Warren for Help

Copyright, 1915, International News Service.

HELEN turned from the deck rail, where she had been watching the shores of Jamaica fade into mist. They had been at sea two days, and although Helen had enjoyed every minute of the trip, there was a little feeling of sadness connected with it, too. Somehow there always seemed to be some little sadness connected with too good a time, and she had left Colon with plenty of pleasant memories.

It had been such fun to have such a perfectly splendid send-off. Several of the officers had come down to the wharf to see them off, and although Warren had been quiet and disagreeable, Helen had laughed and talked with them till the last moment.

Now, as the sun air began to get too damp for her, she shivered slightly and was about to go inside, when she noticed the nonchalant attention of an individual who had been standing near her for the last fifteen minutes.

Now, as the light rose within fell on his face, she recognized him as a dark-skinned man who sat near them at the table. He had stared at her too openly for her not to have noticed him before now, and she resolved to speak to Warren about him if it continued.

As coolly as possible she gathered her wraps around her and went into the warmly lighted salon. Warren was sitting in a corner with a book, and she ran to him and mischievously placed her hands over his eyes.

He looked up absently and then frowned. Warren was not always pleasant when he was interrupted. He was not a reader, by any means, but when he did pick up a book he devoted all his attention to it for the time being.

"Are you up to an exciting part?" she said tenderly.

"No," he snapped.

"Don't be cross, dear," Helen persisted. "I really have something to tell you."

HELEN TELLS WARREN ABOUT THE ANNOYER

"Well, what is it?" he questioned, plainly eager to get back to his book.

"Do you remember that man who stares at me so terribly?"

"You mean the man you think stares at you. I never noticed it."

"Why, Warren, you have noticed it, because you mentioned it yourself last night."

"Did I? I thought I said that you were actually beginning to expect attention, since the stir you made at the army post."

"But, Warren, he is disagreeable. I met him on deck just now, and he smirked me with his smile." Helen shivered.

"Nonsense, don't imagine those things. Simply ignore him and you will be all right."

Helen was reassured and began to think that she had been unnecessarily foolish.

"Well, I'll go down and wake up Winifred, dear," she said merrily. "Will you be down soon?"

"In a little while," he said, going back to the unfinished chapter.

Helen proceeded down to her stateroom and began to get out her clothes for the evening. The people on the steamer dressed more than they had coming down, and Helen was frankly glad. She liked the custom of dressing for dinner. As she slipped out of her shirtwaist and into a kimono she happened to raise her eyes to the window, and met the straight glance of a man who was calmly looking in at her—the same man she had spoken to Warren about.

With a little cry she ran over to the window and pushed up the blind. Then she sat down on the edge of the couch and began to cry. After all, she had been right, and Warren had refused to bother about it. The man might come around to the door, she thought with a sudden panic.

He had seen the entire room and would probably do something of the kind before Warren got down. She ran over to the door and slipped the bolt. Then she rang the bell furiously for the steward.

HELEN SENDS FOR WARREN TO COME

Winifred woke up at the noise and sat up looking sleepily at her mother, and the steward came in a couple of moments and asked Helen what she would have.

"Will you go up to the salon and ask Mr. Curtis to come down," said Helen, her voice quivering curiously, as the boy left her, she fancied he had wondered what ailed her.

She sat shivering on the berth until she heard someone try the door.

"Is that you, dear?" she said, shrill fear that it might be some one else striking at her heart.

"Yes, what on earth's the matter?"

Helen unlocked the door and Warren strode in.

"That man," she said faintly, "I told you so, and you wouldn't believe me."

Helen was crying softly as she gasped out the words.

"Where, what do you mean?" asked Warren, his indifference shaken for once.

"At the window, as soon as I came down."

"Looking in here?"

"Yes, dear, it frightened me terribly."

"I should think it would. I'll speak to the captain."

"No, Warren; I don't want it known, but stay with me so that nothing else can happen."

"You bet I will, and if he tries anything more of the kind I'll throw him overboard."

Fifty Thousand Dollars for a Violin

THE price of the 600 Strads known to be in existence usually ranges from $2,500 to $7,500, but in a few instances these figures have been greatly exceeded. Two violins, at least, are worth no less than $50,000 each. The first of these magnificent instruments is the "Emperor" Stradivarius that once belonged to the collection of the late George Hudson, in England. It is 200 years old, and Joachim, the famous maestro, declared to be the finest violin he had ever seen. The only one comparable with it is that left by Paganini to the city of Genoa. A sum running into five figures sterling was offered for it.

An Edinburgh gentleman once paid $10,000 for a violin which, in common with many of its brother instruments, had a strange history. It was bought in 1827 by an eccentric named Tarisio, who gave up his trade as a cobbler and started searching every nook and corner of Italy for Cremona violins.

He lived alone in a wretched attic in Milan, and when he died, in 1854, he was found surrounded by a confused heap of fiddles. Hearing of the collection, a Paris dealer rushed off post haste to Milan and purchased all the instruments for the nominal sum of $15,000. One of them was worth $10,000. During the Franco-German war he buried it in a damp-proof, air-tight box, keeping it underground and away from all harm, until peace had been proclaimed.

Sarasate, the great violinist, who died a few years since, left a Strad worth $10,000 to the Conservatory of Madrid, and a similar gift to Paris. One of the instruments he had at one time been the property of a Genevan blacksmith by whom it had been given by a traveler who could not pay for the shoeing of his horse. For years it hung upon the walls of the blacksmith's house until another horseman, M. Boissier, a collector of violins, happened to pass that way.

The blacksmith asked him to buy the violin for any price he cared to name, or else find a purchaser. M. Boissier carried it away, cleaned off the smoke, discovered the Strad mark, and did not defraud the humble blacksmith.

The favorite violin of Eugene Ysaye—a magnificent Strad, valued at $15,000—that was stolen from his dressing-room in St. Petersburg a few years ago—once changed hands for £5, and has been sold since by an unknown traveler to the waiter at a railway restaurant in a small Moravian town.

Miss Beebe has twenty violins in his collection, but he cannot forget his beautiful Strad. His next best, and the one he now uses for all concert work, is a Guarnerius. "The biggest secret about a violin," he recently said, "is the varnish. Nobody can tell how it was made, for the secret died with the old Cremonese makers. The violin is the one perfect instrument in the world. Stradivarius and Guarnerius left no chance for further improvement."

Some sixty years ago a stranger came into the shop of a London music seller named Hertz, and offered a violin for $5. Hertz jumped at the bargain. After remaining in his family for a number of years it was discovered to be the work of Hertz Strad to a foreign nobleman. The price paid was $7,000—not a bad investment!

FAMOUS FOR HER HAIR

Actress Tells How to Obtain It.

Madame Rose, the well-known actress, who played on one of the leading vaudeville circuits the past winter and who especially noted for her long, beautiful hair, in a recent interview in Chicago made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can promote the growth of their hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe which they can mix at home. To a half-pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. This is not only the finest hair grower I have ever known, but it prevents the hair from falling out, removes dandruff and scalp humors, darkens streaked, faded gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. The ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost."—Advertisement.

"Information?"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1915, by International News Service.

"HELLO! Hello! Hello! Please give me Information. I want the small fat one—with the yello' curls, for I want something very 'important! And only he knows. (If he shouldn't—who does?) Is this Information? Listen, I want—please put me on the wire of the man who wants me, too. I don't know his number. I don't know where he lives. No, I don't know the street—or the town either. And I don't even know his name. Not even his name and initials! What? I—I—I'm mighty sorry. I don't KNOW what he looks like, either. I only know one—no, two things—can't you get him from that? I know that he's livin'—and I know that he's splendid! And nothing else do I know. He MUST have been ringing for me, too. That is if he's had a breathing minute to lean back and wish that he might find the only girl in the world! Up till now I've been busy myself. I've been growing—and finishing myself into the girl that is the best I can do. I've been saving my heart—and thinking and working so I might be possessed of a soul and capable hands. I've been growing a merry smile so I might win the happy-habit for good. Oh, I've been most busy—just living and rounding out the angles of mind and heart. And now—now I have time to study on which side my hair looks best parted—and what color looks best next to my face, so I may please a PRINCE.

"Listen, Information—I don't know his street number—nor the town where he lives—nor even the color of his eyes—but please find him and put him on the wire."

And says Information, cocking his head and tucking in his chin, "Sure, my dear, there's been plenty a calling who are having their breathing minute and thinking of finding the 'only girl in the world,' but they, too, are poverty stricken in addresses and numbers and any little thing I might nab onto to locate Heart's Desire. Which one is it that's been calling that's the One you're looking for? I'm the one big Information. And sometimes I get HIM! But I was born of Venus—and sometimes I fall. Oh, sometimes I fall! But I'll do my best and give you the one who SOUNDS like the one you're looking for. Good-by;"—NELL BRINKLEY.

The Mystery of Sleep

Most of Us Like It Too Well and Take Far Too Much of It

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

WE who think that stretching oneself upon a long, soft bed is an indispensable requisite to sleep have very little practical knowledge of the conditions under which sleep is not only possible but refreshing and restorative.

A Gurkha soldier will fall into a sound sleep with his chin against a veranda post. The Ghurka is a full-man, slight of stature, very active, and possessing great endurance. His out-of-doors life gives him vigorous health, and for him sleep is reduced to its primary principle, which is simply the relaxation of the vital functions of the body, in order to give them rest and opportunity for recuperation, while the frame of the body is so placed that it needs no conscious support.

Beds, with their springs, mattresses, pillows, downy coverlets, etc., are purely luxuries which have become indispensable in civilized life through habit and long indulgence. There is a great deal of good sense in Thomas A. Edison's repeated assertion that we have become too fond of sleep and take too much of it for our good and the good of the race. The Ghurka, in the position described, provides his body with all the support that it really needs in order that the wearied muscles and tissues may renew their force and repair the waste to which they have been subjected by a long period of activity.

Sleep like that of this man, induced by pure weariness, and taken in such a posture that the moment the faculties begin to awake again the body springs into full activity, is of the most refreshing kind. It is the needless inactivity following sleep taken in a comfortable bed that cultivates the bad habit that Mr. Edison condemns. The bed forms an attraction in itself, without regard to its primary use as a convenient resting place for a tired, sleep-seeking body. This fact has been recognized in history.

Couches were very simple affairs among the Romans before the decay of their empire began. A hard bed, and a hard rest for the head, were the rule with them.

The fact that we have pushed the comforts of the bed far beyond the needs of our bodies, and to a point where they tend to enervation, is sufficiently shown by the case with which anybody who is really wearied and in need of repose can fall into a refreshing slumber amid circumstances that might seem to render sleep impossible. Horsemen, after long riding, especially at night, often fall asleep in the saddle, and awake, after a little while, feeling immensely refreshed. People sometimes fall asleep while walking and are awakened by a sudden jolt, the limbs in the meantime having unconsciously performed their habitual duty. To sleep on a plank, or even on a stone floor, is no hardship, if only you are at the same time full of health and full of weariness.

The science of sleep is not yet well understood. We do not know exactly how it is brought about. There is a widely accepted belief that it is produced by the accumulation in the blood of the waste products of the nervous and muscular systems, which benumb the brain cells. In perfect sleep there appears to be a total arrest of the functions of the brain, at least as far as consciousness is concerned. The ideal sleep is dreamless, and that is far more apt to come to a march-wearied Gurkha, braced against a post, than to a self-indulgent, would-be sleeper, luxuriously ensconced in a bed of billowy down.

The Fly in the Ointment

Old Mrs. Higgins was an incurable grumbler. She grumbled at everything and everybody.

The vicar had determined to try and find something about which she had no complaint. He thought he had found it in the old lady's crop of potatoes, which was the finest for miles around.

"Ah, for once you must be well pleased," he said, with a beaming smile, as he met her in the village street. "Everybody's saying how splendid your potatoes are this year."

The old lady glowered at him as she answered:

"They're not so poor. But where's the bad ones for the pigs?"

BRIDGETON, N. J.—"I want to thank you a thousand times for the wonderful good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very much from a female trouble. I had bearing down pains, was irregular and at times could hardly walk across the room. I was unable to do my housework or attend to my baby I was so weak. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me a world of good, and now I am strong and healthy, can do my work and tend my baby. I advise all suffering women to take it and get well as I did."—Mrs. FANNIE COOPER, R. F. D., Bridgeton, N. J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get about two ounces of plain powdered sweet from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the pores of the skin—clean and unclogging only cause irritation, make large pores, and do not get them out after they become hard. The powdered borate and the water simply dissolve the gelatinous substance that holds the pores full of blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anybody troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.

Second Contest Period On

What the Big Trips Mean

With the appearance of voting coupon No. 15 in last Saturday's American, the first lap in this competition comes to a close

It is important to remember that you have until 5 o'clock p. m., Saturday, April 17, in which to get your Series "A" coupons into the office of the Contest Manager at No. 5 Winthrop square.

If sent by mail they must be sent before 5 P. M. on next Saturday, April 17.

No Series "A" coupons will be counted that are brought in or mailed after that day and hour.

You should watch this article every day in the American. You will find the stories interesting and, by the way, if you have anything you would like to see printed about your own efforts or your own experiences in gathering vote coupons, by all means communicate with the Manager of the Contest at No. 5 Winthrop square.

He will be glad to talk to you and help you in any way possible.

A word of caution to candidates—If any newsdealer or newsboy sells or attempts to sell a paper with the voting coupon cut out or missing, please report the fact at once to the Contest Manager, telephone Main 6180. Every copy of the Daily and Sunday American from now on to and including July 3d will contain ONE voting coupon and you should insist that you receive an entire paper.

If all the people in New England, who long to, COULD take the wonder trip to the Pacific Coast and back, it would be a busy time for the railroads.

There isn't a candidate, who comes in to see the Contest Manager, or writes him, who isn't enthusiastic over the outlook and over the generosity of the American in offering $1,250 in gold, besides the 25 De Luxe trips—and that's the way it goes—the chance to see this country being given to the twenty-five securing the largest number of votes in the contest has made everyone in the race eager to win.

There never was a more praise-worthy incentive. Most of us have had to be content with reading of the wonders of the Golden West—here is an opportunity to actually see the orange groves and the orchards—to climb the Rockies and visit the wonder spots of America from coast to coast. And all without a cent of cost to the twenty-five making the trips as the guests of this paper.

For three weeks you, who carry off the twenty-five prizes, will be entertained in the most perfect way that money and ingenuity can devise.

You will be treated to first-class dining not only en route, but in the most famous hotels of the country; you will be given drives and automobile rides free of charge to enable you to really get a knowledge of the country, and you will be provided with the most up-to-date accommodations by Pullmans and sleepers, and also in San Francisco during the four-days' stay there.

You can't possibly work too hard to win trips like these, and remember, if you come in 25th in the race, you will get just exactly the same price that the first winning candidate gets—no more and no less.

Here's the enrollment ballot. If you have already enrolled, perhaps you have friends who have not the good luck to see the American. Tell them about it—they may like to get into the race, too.

Watch for the full page of candidates' photographs in next Sunday's American. If you have not yet sent in your photograph—do so at once.

Some day this week the Contest Manager will print in this daily story a complete, detailed itinerary of the trip. And when you see it, you will work all the harder and wonder at the marvelous entertainment that has been provided for you.

Just one word of caution to all candidates: Be careful not to send in any Series "B" coupons when turning in your Series "A" coupons this week.

Contest Rules

Read Carefully

THE CONTEST—The Boston American's California Expositions Contest is a voting competition which is open to every man, woman and child (over 16 years of age) in New England, except employes of the American and their families and relatives. The contest begins Saturday, March 27, 1915, and ends Saturday, July 3, 1915.

THE PRIZES—Twenty-five De Luxe trips to the California Expositions and FIFTY DOLLARS in gold to each of the 25 trip winners will be awarded.

THE CANDIDATES—Every man, woman or child (over 16 years of age), who is a resident of New England, is eligible to compete, except employes of the American as noted above. Participation in any previous American contest does not debar anyone.

THE ENROLLMENT—Every candidate must be regularly enrolled from his or her permanent address on the enrollment blank printed in the Boston American Daily and Sunday or a copy thereof.

THE VOTES—Every day during the life of the contest, beginning Saturday, March 27, 1915, and ending Saturday, July 3, 1915, a coupon will appear in the Daily and Sunday American which will count for votes.

The Daily American coupon will count ONE vote, and the Sunday American coupon will count TEN votes.

The contest will be divided into 7 periods, and the coupons, during each period, will be numbered in series as follows:

1st period — Series A	No. 1 to A No. 15—appearing March 27 to April 10
2d period — Series B	No. 1 to B No. 15—appearing April 11 to April 25
3d period — Series C	No. 1 to C No. 15—appearing April 26 to May 10
4th period — Series D	No. 1 to D No. 15—appearing May 11 to May 25
5th period — Series E	No. 1 to E No. 15—appearing May 26 to June 9
6th period — Series F	No. 1 to F No. 15—appearing June 10 to June 24
7th period — Series G	No. 1 to G No. 9—appearing June 25 to July 3

DOUBLE VOTE VALUE will be given for each consecutive SERIES turned in within one week after the appearance of the last coupon in each SERIES. For example, a set of 15 coupons numbered "Series A, No. 1" to "Series A No. 15" inclusive will count as 66 votes, if received in one package as directed below, whereas 15 daily and 2 Sunday coupons not consecutively numbered will count as only 35 votes (their face value). But in any event all the coupons must be turned in within the set time limit. For example: ALL (A) coupons must be turned in not later than 5 P. M., April 17. ALL (A) coupons received after this date and time will be refused; a similar rule applies to the other six SERIES.

Votes sent in daily during each period will count only for their face value.

Votes cannot be transferred from one contestant to another after receipt of same by the American.

The vote value of coupons will remain unchanged throughout the entire contest.

HOW TO SEND VOTE COUPONS—At the end of each contest period, collect all votes of that particular series, then put all your "Series A No. 1" coupons together, 10 or more of them in some manner and attach a slip of paper showing the number of "Series A No. 1" coupons contained in that package. Do the same with "Series A No. 2" coupons, and the same with "Series A No. 3, 4, 5," and so on up to and including "Series A No. 15," the last one of that series. Wrap them all in one bundle and write or stamp, on the outside of this bundle, your name and address and the number of consecutive sets said to be contained therein.

WHERE TO SEND THE VOTES—Bring them to the Expositions Contest Headquarters at No. 5 Winthrop square (just around the corner from the American's main office at Summer and Devonshire streets), or, if sent by mail, send to American Expositions Contest, P. O. Box 3047, Boston, Mass.

THE WINNERS—The 25 candidates who receive the largest number of votes will be awarded the 25 prizes. In the event of total votes for any contestants who win being tied, similar prizes will be given to each winner so tied.

SPECIAL NOTICE—The American will not be responsible for the receipt of any packages unless sent by registered mail or express.

No persons can win more than one prize.

The American reserves the right to amend these rules and conditions from time to time, if it may seem necessary, in order to protect all contestants from any possible contingency which may arise. The Contest Editor will decide all disputed questions carefully and in good faith, and his decisions will be final and conclusive.

HOW KRON PRINZ ESCAPED FLEET

By International News Service.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 13.—That the Germain sea raider Kronprins Wilhelm had a miraculous escape from the allied war ships off the Virginia Capes was the statement today by her youthful commander, Lieutenant Captain Thierfelder.

He gave the following graphic account of his experiences after destroying the British steamer Coleby on March 27 last:

"We were just below the Equator when the Kronprinz found herself short of coal and provisions and badly in need of drydocking.

"Vessels which I had confidently expected to bring supplies failed to appear. Day after day the lookouts swept the seas for sight of prey, but never a sail hove in sight.

"At last it became apparent that we could expect no help. The seas remained empty of belligerent merchant craft. Finally I determined to run northward for Newport News, where I had heard good drydocking could be had.

"So the long cruise began with only one possible chance against our being forced into a neutral port. That chance was the arrival of a prearranged rendezvous of a collier, and toward that position on the chart I made all speed.

"We neared the spot where the collier was to have met us. Darkness was falling. The sky was overcast with steel gray clouds. Our own battle paint was gray. We merged with the tones of sky and sea. That was all that saved us.

"We sighted the collier, but no sooner had we sighted her than we discovered that she was under convoy of two British cruisers. She had been captured. Silently we put about, and under forced draft steamed along the blockading line. Not a shot was fired. There was no pursuit.

"Further up the coast we began hearing at night the wireless of the British cruisers. Sometimes as-many as eight would be talking across the waters. These wireless calls were our danger signals, and steering by guess as much as by skill to avoid the localities from which they seemed to come, we tore on up the coast.

"Sometimes into the muffled chatter of the warships would break the staccato sentences of the press reports. It was from these that we first learned of the plight of the Prinz Eitel. We had not had a word from her since she put to sea.

"And then on the night of April 7 there flashed across the seas the messages that the Prinz Eitel had interned. Suddenly the chatter of the English ships was stilled.

"We took heart. We hoped the blockade would be disbanded. With light-hearted glee we began the last lap of our race.

"But after a night or two we were warned that all would not be as easy as we supposed. The wireless of the British warships came to us again in the night. There seemed to be three British cruisers and one French cruiser talking. I estimate that we ran within three to fifty miles of them every night.

"But at last the capes were in sight. You know the rest."

Claim Germans Are Mistreated

By FREDERICK WERNER.

Personal Corresponder of the International News Service.

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, April 13.—Germany has protested through the neutral government of the United States against the treatment accorded by English to the captured crews of German submarines, threatening to take retaliatory measures against English officers imprisoned in Germany.

In a note sent by Foreign Minister Von Jagow on Sunday to Ambassador Gerard, the former asserted that the treatment accorded to the captured crews of the U-13 and U-8 was contrary to international law, and asked that Mr. Gerard make arrangements for a member of the American Embassy at London to make a personal investigation.

Referring to British charges that the Germans failed to rescue those on board vessels sunk by submarines, the note says:

"The inference that rescues were intentionally neglected can be denied with horror."

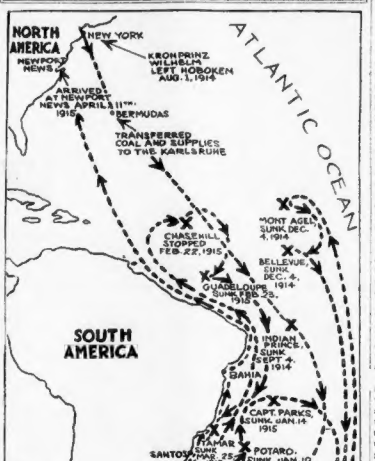
ROUTE TAKEN BY THE GERMAN RAIDER KRON PRINZ WILHELM



NEED 3 WEEKS TO REPAIR RAIDER

By International News Service.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 13.—Three weeks at least, possibly more, will be required to make the German auxiliary cruiser Kron Prinz Wilhelm seaworthy. This has been determined by the repair survey now under way. Marine engineers who have inspected the hull of the sea raider declared today that the Kron Prinz Wilhelm would be unable to leave here by the end of April if Captain Thierfelder carries out his announced intention of quitting port.

Water is still pouring into the hull of the German ship through crevices between plates started by the terrific strain of her long career in heavy seas.

The boilers are in very bad shape and will have to be completely overhauled; to say nothing of defects that may appear when the ship goes into drydock.

Permission for the cruiser to enter drydock probably will be granted tomorrow or as soon as Collector Hamilton has received Captain Thierfelder's official statement of the time he will need to stay in American waters.

The vessel's pumps are kept busy.

Dr. Joseph Goldberger of the public health and marine hospital service arrived in Newport News today, and requested permission to board the Kron Prinz Wilhelm to study at first hand the symptoms, ravages and treatment of the dread Oriental plague, berri-berri, from which 110 members of the German crew are suffering.

As a result of a persistent report that there are two or more naturalized American citizens aboard the Kron Prinz as members of the crew, Collector Hamilton made inquiry of Captain Thierfelder, concerning the matter. The German commander agreed to scan his crew list and determine whether the report is true.

"99 to 1 That Italy Will Join the War"

By International News Service.

GENEVA, April 13.—According to the Gazetta del Popolo, there are 99 chances out of a possible 100 that Italy will participate in the war. It states that reservists belonging to all classes from 1890 to 1912 are being called gradually to the colors. Belief is general in Switzerland that Italy has already enforced a practical, general mobilization.

Germany Joins the Crusade on Demon Rum

By International News Service.

LONDON, April 13.—The war on Demon rum is about to enlist another recruit. Following the lead of Russia, which has placed a ban on vodka, France, which has prohibited the sale of absinthe, and England, which is curtailing the drinking of spirits, Germany is about to publish an edict prohibiting the sale of distilled liquors in saloons.

The decree will prevent the German workingman from obtaining "Schnapps" his traditional drink, until after the war.

Wilson Admits Peace Proposal By the Pope

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—That President Wilson has been offered the co-operation of Pope Benedict in an effort to restore peace in Europe was indicated by the chief executive today in his talks with callers.

The offer did not come formally, but the President declined to go into details as to how it was made to him. He would not discuss peace prospects at present. He said, however, that without desiring to discountenance the work of the peace delegates now sitting at The Hague, the meeting had no official sanction from any government, and its work would be entirely advisory.

French Shell Camp Near Jerusalem

By International News Service.

PARIS, April 13.—The French battleship St. Louis bombarded an important Turkish encampment near Gaza, Palestine, on Monday, the French ministry of marine announced today. The battleship was aided by several watercraft, which flew Ireland and directed the fire of the gunners. Gaza is a town about two miles from the Mediterranean and forty-eight miles southwest of Jerusalem. It is an important caravan station. The St. Louis is a vessel of 11,053 tons.

BERLIN REPORTS LE PRETRE GAINS

LONDON, April 13.—Paris today reports officially that the French are maintaining their offensive in the Woevre region, while Berlin states in a War Office report that all French attacks east of the Meuse River have been repulsed and that the Germans are gaining ground in the Le Prestre forest. The German staff's report follows.

"French troops made attacks Monday near Berry-au-Bac and between the Meuse and Moselle, near Maizeray east of Verdun, near Marchevilles southeast of Malancry on the Malcery Marchevilles front and south of Hartmannsweiler Kopf. They were everywhere repulsed.

"The French report that they have thrown 150 bombs on the station and foundry at Bruges. In reality nine bombs fell in the section of the town and two near Bruges without doing any damage.

"German aviators in reply dropped numerous bombs upon Poperhinghe, Hasebrouck and Cassel, which are occupied by the English.

"Northeast of Shippes the enemy again used projectiles developing asphyxiating gas.

"In Priestwald (Le Pretre Forest) there has been day and night fighting. There the Germans are slowly gaining ground."

The French troops at several points between the Meuse and Moselle Rivers have reached the wire entanglements defending the German positions, according to the official communique issued at Paris.

Resumption of activity on the Aisne River is also reported, the French having captured a German trench east of Berry-au-Bac. Between the North Sea and the Aisne River the opposing forces have been engaged in artillery duels, while they have devoted their efforts to mine warfare in the Argonne.

Another violation of international war laws is charged to Germany in the following statement issued by the French Minister of Marine today:

"German torpedoes picked up in the English Channel recently prove that the German admiralty is systematically obstructing the mechanism of torpedoes the result whereof is to convert a torpedo into a floating mine. This is contrary to the first article of The Hague convention, which prescribes that torpedoes must become harmless if they fail to hit their target."

Filene Talks on War Settlement

ITHACA, N. Y., April 13.—Edward A. Filene of Boston delivered an address here, speaking to the Cornell students and the Business Men's Association. He said a bad settlement of the war would mean serious losses to the United States through the paralysis of the foreign market.

BANKS TO PUSH LONG-BREWING WAR ON M'ADOO AND WILLIAMS

By B. C. FORBES.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The long-brewing fight between the Treasury Department and the Riggs National Bank of Washington and the National City Bank interests in New York reached its climax when Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Controller John Skelton Williams were charged to the District of Columbia Supreme Court with combining and conspiring in a desperate attempt to wreck the Riggs National Bank of Washington.

This action spills much pent up bad blood between Messrs. McAdoo and Williams on one side and the Riggs National and the National City Bank on the other. A titanic battle, destined to become historic, is to be waged.

Behind Messrs. McAdoo and Williams are all the resources and power of President Wilson and his administration.

Behind the Riggs Bank are the unlimited wealth and great influence of the Stillman-Rockefeller interests, though at the City Bank it was declared that institution had nothing whatever to do with the legal proceedings, a statement technically true.

BIG POLITICAL EFFECT.

The political consequences of this challenge to the Wilson administration are expected to be momentous.

The latest efforts of the treasury heads to reduce the financial status of New York in taxing out the Federal reserve districts were interpreted as typifying the hostile attitude of Messrs. McAdoo and Williams to the metropolis.

The local financial community is almost wholly in sympathy with the banking interests involved. For this reason, when Mr. McAdoo and Mr. Williams were called to Washington, it was understood they were anxious to "get even" with financial New York in general and with the National City Bank in particular, because of the experiences these gentlemen had during their business careers.

Mr. McAdoo completed the McAdoo tunnels, but his project was not supported financially by certain financial institutions. Mr. McAdoo's enterprise finally went into what Mr. Whitridge aptly called "unostentatious bankruptcy," much to the chagrin of its sponsor. Interests not identified with the City Bank came to its rescue. Mr. McAdoo, it is understood, was not in an amiable frame of mind toward New York when he was placed in charge of the treasury.

Mr. Williams, then a banker and railway magnate, in Richmond, Va., had had an equally disagreeable experience with New York financiers. He had been ousted from the Seaboard Air Line Railway, which he at one time controlled. Among those who assumed direction of the property were Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the City Bank; Benjamin Strong, Jr., now governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank; A. H. Wiggin, Charles H. Sabin and other identified with the Ryan or Morgan interests.

Soon after Messrs. McAdoo and Williams took command at Washington a young woman who compiled certain treasury records for the Riggs and National City Banks was unceremoniously ousted and a statement issued by the department which brought forth a pointed reply from the bankers.

Sleuths were dispatched to New York to dig into the records of the City Bank covering many years in an effort to find some cause for a fresh attack, but all that was found was a Chicago railway loan which was criticised, but was not found illegal. Milton Ailles of the Riggs Bank next had a sharp encounter with the treasury heads.

WILLIAMS DECLARES BRANDEIS IS PROBING THE RIGGS NATIONAL

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury and Comptroller of the Currency Williams are defendants in proceedings which allege they have combined and conspired to wreck the Riggs National Bank. Temporary and permanent injunctions to halt the alleged conspiracy and to prevent the comptroller from making what the bank charges are unlawful demands for special reports of various kinds are sought from the court.

The bank's bill of complaint covers eighty-six typewritten pages and contains thirty-seven specific allegations.

Comptroller Williams says:

"The recent investigations of the affairs of the Riggs National Bank disclosed irregularities and unlawful practices on the part of certain officers of sufficient importance to merit their reference to the Department of Justice, and that department engaged the service of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston as special counsel."

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

Grand Opera House.

Jess Willard in "The Heart Punch," attracted a large number to the Grand Opera House yesterday where this film is seen in connection with the French Models Burlesque Company which is presenting a clever show and which was royally received by all patrons. Frank Burt is the principal comedian and his originality won him a host of friends the moment he appeared upon the stage. Amy Allyn, Flossie McCloud, as "Flossie Footlights," Laura Houston, George Martin, Walter Vernon, Fred Silva, and a host of others were much in evidence in the merry-making. Thursday night there will be wrestling under the direction of George Tuohey, the contestants being Lemle and Hockman.

Park Theatre

Boston's hosts of discriminating lovers of the best in high class photo-drama are sure to be pleased with the excellent program being offered at the Park Theatre this week. Heading the bill is the latest release of the Paramount picture program, the Jesse L. Lasky picturization of George Bronson Howard's funniest of all society comedies, "Snobs."

This production is doubly enjoyable, amusing and interesting, because of the fact that in it is starred "the funniest of all funny men," Victor Moore, well known as the star comedian in the popular success, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway." He is extremely funny in the stellar role in "Snobs," a poor milkman who suddenly inherits the title and immense fortune of an English duke.

Several other excellent numbers completes the bill this week, which as presented at Monday's shows proved one of the best ever offered at the Park Theatre since the inauguration of its present policy of entertainment.

Today seats go on sale for next week's attraction at the Majestic Theatre, George Broadhurst's very successful play, "The Law of the Land," which comes here direct from its all season run at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, New York city.

MURRAY REPORTS BUSINESS BOOM

Postmaster William F. Murray sees in the increased business of the post-office department a sure sign of an increasing trade boom. Postoffice statistics, he told the Pilgrim Publicity Association, the infallible business barometer of the country, just completed, show that postoffice business for March, 1915, is far ahead of March, 1914. It is the first month for the postoffice to show an increase of business over the corresponding month of the year before since the outbreak of the European war.

Postmaster Murray gave these "don'ts":

Don't use the word "City" for "Boston, Mass."

Don't fail to have sender's name and address on outside of letter.

12 Thompson St., New York.

"Gentlemen—Five years ago last August I was taken to St. Francis' Hospital to be treated for bronchitis and congested lungs. After several weeks' treatment I was advised by the doctor to go to a convalescent sanitarium, but could not be admitted because the doctor at the hospital, after a thorough examination, declared my case Tubercular, and gave me a certificate to that effect. I showed the certificate to Brother Stark, and he advised me to take Eckman's Alterative. I took it faithfully, and soon found myself free from night sweats and fever. I have not taken the Alterative now for two years, and can truthfully say I am well. I feel better and am stronger than before my sickness." (Abbreviated.)

MIL D WEATHER AFFORDS SCHOOLBOY TEAMS CHANCE TO GET INTO CONDITION

RED SOX IN LAST EXHIBITION GAME

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

RICHMOND, Va., April 13.—The Red Sox are here today to play their last exhibition game, before beginning a series against the Athletics in Philadelphia in the opening week of the season of the American League campaign of 1915.

The game here might well have been omitted, but President Lansing arranged it as a favor to Jack Dunn and to help out the much harassed International League magnate.

Dunn was run out of Baltimore by the Federal League and has established a club here as an experiment. From what can be gathered, here the experiment is likely to prove a bloomer of the first water. In order to take on International League ball prices will have to be raised here, and it is believed the public will not stand for the increase.

Carrigan Threatened to Call Off Richmond Game.

However, this has little to do with the Red Sox. For a few minutes after the arrival of Uncle Bill Carrigan's band here it looked as if there would be no game after all. The local management wanted to start the game at 4 o'clock, and demurred when Uncle Bill insisted that it begin at 3 o'clock.

The argument reached the stage where Bill said he would pack up his ball club and move on to Philadelphia at once unless 3 o'clock was agreed upon.

The Red Sox will have to get out of here on the 8:20 train tonight, and they will not have any too much leeway, even with the game starting at 3. But we will leave at 8:20, boarding a sleeping car, which will arrive at Philadelphia shortly after 2 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The players will be allowed to sleep until 7 o'clock, when they will be routed out and sent to their hotel, the Aldine, which will be their headquarters in the Quaker City. So long as Uncle Bill's band of barb stormers will be a tired lot on the opening day of the championship season.

Harold Janvrin Laid Up With Cold in His Eyes.

The ride from Cincinnati yesterday was not exactly a picnic. The team left Parkersburg, W. Va., at 6:25 on Sunday night and pulled into Richmond at 7 o'clock last night. The journey was broken by a layover of nearly three hours in Washington making train connections.

Harold Janvrin, the regular second baseman of the Red Sox, will be unable to get on the field this afternoon, because he is suffering from cold in his eyes. They are inflamed and somewhat painful. Mike McNally, the substitute infielder, will play the game in Janvrin's place and in a uniform.

Uncle Bill has picked George Foster and Ralph Comstock for box duty today, and Thomas and Haley will do the catching.

BRAVES BATTLE BROWN TODAY

Batting Order of Braves-Brown Game

BRAVES.	BROWN.
Moran, r.f.	Ormsby, c.f.
Evers, 2b.	Dike, l.f.
Connolly, l.f.	Johnson, s.s.
Gilbert, c.f.	Baldinton, 3b.
Schmidt, 1b.	Anderson, 1b.
Smith, 3b.	Murray, 2b.
Maranville, s.s.	Jemail, r.f.
Gowdy, c.	Donovan, c.
Crutcher, p.	Crowell, p.
Coeehan, p.	Crum, p.

The Braves will meet Brown University this afternoon at Fenway Park, and this contest will end the practice game season for the world's champions.

Captain Johnny Evers, who has been visiting his home in Troy, N. Y., for the last couple of days, arrived in town this morning and will be in the line-up this afternoon. Sherwood Magee has been nursing a bruised finger and will be out of the game again today, as he bumped the injured member yesterday during the practice.

Dick Crutcher and Gene Coeehan will be in the box for the Braves today. Both of these boys are on the dangerous list as far as their certainty of staying with the world's champions is concerned, and they will be on their toes to show Manager Stallings they have enough "stuff" to warrant his keeping them with the club.

Melrose Boys to Hurl Against the Brown.

Rube Cram and Minot Crowell, both of whom prepared for Brown at Melrose High School, will be in the points for the Providence collegians. Crowell has been showing up exceptionally well this season and is already recognized as a first string pitcher. Cram, who is a left hander, has done fine work for Brown and has already received a number of major league offers.

Another boy who has been giving a fine account of himself is Marty Donovan, the old Exeter catcher. In the game against the Providence club of the International League Saturday Donovan turned Dave Shean's alleged base stealers back with marked regularity and the Leaguers just nosed out a 1 to 0 winner. In the same contest Crowell was on the hilltop and allowed only two hits.

Brown Expects to Make Good Showing Today.

On account of that fine showing against Providence the boys from Brown are all confident of giving the Braves a fine battle. There is considerable interest among the student body at Brown over today's conflict and a large contingent will accompany the team to Boston.

"The Rabbit's" Column

By Walter J. Maranville

SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

We will complete our Spring exhibition series this afternoon when we will battle the Brown baseball team at Fenway Park. I have been informed that the collegians are represented by a fast, peppery nine, but I believe that the Braves will not experience much trouble in winning. One cannot expect a college ball team to cope with a major league outfit. This is especially true when the big league club is the class of the baseball world. The college boys are really nervous when they oppose a big league team and the result is that they do not play their best game and are easily vanquished.

* * *

Harvard gave us an interesting battle yesterday, but the players lacked experience and consequently were beaten by a count of 7 to 3. We did not get many safe blows off Harvard's pitchers, but were aided a great deal in scoring runs by costly errors by our opponents. Coach Sexton, however, has a strong, well balanced club under his command and I believe that it will give a grand account of itself against rival college nines.

* * *

We will receive our first severe test of form next when we battle the Phillies in our opening National League game at Fenway Park tomorrow. The boys are all in fine condition for the tussle and we expect to breeze in a winner. We will have to play at top speed all of the time as Pat Moran has a strong ball team. The Phillies made a poor showing in the National League flag fight last season, but there has been a big change in the makeup of the Quaker club. The team will naturally miss Sherwood Magee and Hans Lobert, but it should, nevertheless, make a fine showing in the coming flag fight.

* * *

Grover Cleveland Alexander will probably oppose us in the opening game of the season. This means that we will have to play our very best game if we are to finish in front. There are many star hurlers in the two big leagues but none of them has anything on the mighty Alexander. He is the class of the National League pitchers, while I do not believe that even Walter Johnson of the Senators has anything on the Quaker city favorite.

* * *

Alexander is blessed with a world of speed, while he also has a fine assortment of dazzling slants. He has a good change of pace and is also a fine general when he is performing on the mound. Alexander has pitched some wonderful baseball since he joined the Phillies. The record books, however, do not do him justice. Many defeats are charged up against him which would have resulted in victories if he had been properly supported by his teammates. But even when "Alex" was on a weak club he always piled up a respectable number of triumphs during the league season.

* * *

Dick Rudolph or Tom Hughes will probably be Stallings' pitching selection. Both of these men got into fine condition early this Spring and have shown well in their workouts. Rudolph pitched three sessions against Harvard yesterday and was batted rather freely. Dick did not exert himself during the time that he opposed the Crimson batters. He used a straight ball the greater part of the time and deceived Coach Sexton's men by changing his delivery. He would pretend to motion the ball as if to throw a "splitter," but instead would shoot a fast ball across the dear old plate.

* * *

There are few pitchers in the country who are in better condition than Tom Hughes. He displayed his class against the Senators last week and would have won his game if a regular umpire had been on the job. Hughes has had a wealth of experience and we all believe that he will come through with flying colors this year. The wise men will then be unable to say that we were forced to rely upon Rudolph, James and Tyler to do all of our pitching.

* * *

Adolph Luque gave the "fans" an opportunity to give him the "once over" yesterday. He pitched three innings against Harvard and, as usual, he held his opponents scoreless. This youngster looks better every day he works and should prove a star when he has had a little more baseball experience.

WARM WEATHER AIDS SCHOOLBOYS

By "DOC."

If the spell of mild weather we are at present enjoying continues throughout the week, nearly every school in Boston will have been represented on the diamond by at least one of its nines, judging by the many daily arrivals on every field.

* * *

Brookline High is today scheduled to meet the youngest of Harvard's representatives. They are billed as a hard-slugging and clever fielding aggregation and are expected to give the boys from the college city no easy time. The Brookline squad will line up as follows: Michael Prendergast, left field; Chester Arthur, centre field; Richard Moran, right field; John Kendrick, first base; Philip Thresbie, second base; Lucius Collins, shortstop; Thomas Lally, third base; Albert Strain, catcher; Captain Thomas Kendrick, pitcher.

* * *

Head Coach Fred A. Fitchner of St. Mark's is busily engaged in developing a rather crude aggregation of playing material. While the team has not as yet any world-beating pace to its credit, Coach Fitch is of the opinion that with a great amount of polishing much hidden talent will be brought to light. There are but two or three experienced players in the assembly, Bradford, a south paw, is practically the only dependable pitcher.

* * *

Barclay Parr, a Princeton product, has been chosen head coach of baseball at Groton. He came to that school last Fall to take charge of the football eleven and in that capacity was a decided success. As originator of several new methods of attack, he gained much admiration in scholastic and football circles. Much is expected of him as coach of the baseball team, as he is known to possess marked ability.

* * *

Volkmann and Roxbury Latin figure in the opening game in the Private School Triangular League. The game will be staged at Volkmann Field, Allston. Each team has officiated in a practice game, but neither managed to carry away a victory. Volkmann was beaten by the Harvard freshmen 15 to 9, while Roxbury Latin was forced to bow to St. Mark's.

* * *

Charles P. McLaughlin, once a Crimson pitcher, will coach the Volkmann nine during the coming season. Claude Davidson, last year's first baseman, has been elected captain.

* * *

Weymouth High has as its coach this year John Cosgrove, Jr., of Medford. This outfit will open with Hingham High today. Saturday they are scheduled to stack up against the pick of Hingham Tech.

* * *

Reading High and Chelsea High will meet this afternoon in their second appearance of the season. Reading emerged victorious in the initial game, but only through the timely hitting of "Charlie" Judkins, basketball hero of the past season.

Phillies' Manager Likes the Braves

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—"Any ball club that wins four straight from the Philadelphia Athletics and takes the world's series in a romp should be considered seriously as a contender for the championship of the United States," declared Pat Moran, the new manager of the Phillies, during a famous line, shown now the Quaker City leader views the coming scrap. Asked what he thought of the Giants' chances with the addition of Hans Lobert and Pitcher Perritt, Moran said: "Perritt is a good pitcher and McGraw has need of all the pitching strength he can muster. As for Lobert, I don't know whether or not he will help much."

The Phillies' manager has little to say about his own club. He admits that his players are in prime condition for the season, that the men are playing good ball, and predicts that they will give a fine account of themselves.

Harvard Nine Play Bowdoin Team Today

The Harvard baseball team will open its regular college season at Soldiers Field today with Bowdoin as the opponent. Willcox, who did so well against the Braves, will pitch part of the game for the Crimson. Pres and Garritt will be his assistants.

Last year Harvard won from Bowdoin by a score of 6 to 4, but this year's team is travelling at a fast clip and can be relied upon to put up a stiff game. The Maine collegians lost only three men by graduation and have been greatly strengthened by the addition of Stanley to the pitching staff.

Edward Ray Will Come with Vardon

NEW YORK, April 13.—Word comes from England that Edward Ray, British open champion in 1912, will accompany Harry Vardon when the latter sails for this country. Ray, who came here with Vardon in 1913, made many friends in this country and the Englishman's play at Brookline, where he tied with Vardon and Francis Ouimet for the national open championship, never will be forgotten by followers of American golf.

With the announcement of Ray's visit comes word to the effect that James Braid, five-time winner of the British open title, is not likely to come, although the statement that he is not coming is not made positively. It is possible that Ray, George Duncan, who was here in 1911, is thinking of coming over again, although he may not reach this country as early as Vardon and Ray do.

Internationals to Open Season April 27

NEW YORK, April 13.—There may be another meeting of the International League here today or tomorrow for the purpose of transferring the stock of the Newark, N. J. club to new owners.

The schedule calls for 140 games. On April 27, Toronto will open the season at Richmond, Va.; Buffalo will play at Providence the following day, and on April 29, Montreal will be at Newark and Rochester will play at Jersey City.

The league's season will close on September 18.

Joseph J. Lannin, president of the Providence club; C. T. Chapin, Rochester, J. J. McCaffrey, Toronto, R. E. Lichtenheim, Montreal, and Alvin M. Smith, Richmond, Va., have been elected as a new board of directors.

FABRE ENTERS MARATHON RACE

Edouard Fabre of Montreal, who finished second in last year's B. A. A. marathon, has again entered the Unicorn classic. This marks Fabre's fifth entry in the local race and many figure he has a fine chance to pull down the premier honors.

Fabre ran side by side with Jimmy Duffy, the winner of last year's run, and was just beaten out at the tape. He finished third in 1911, eighth in 1912 and fifth in 1913. He made his best time last year.

Other entries today were Fred Travelena of the Mohawk A. C. of New York, Charles DeStefano, also of New York, A. F. Merchant of Everett, Gragg Richards of New York and C. L. V. Phillips of Hamilton, Ont. This brings the total entry list up to forty-three.

Willard Tells Woman Writer How He Won Big Fight Sure He Could Have Stopped Johnson in Sixth, He Says

New World Champion Gives New Details of the Fistic Battle in Havana.

By RUTH M. BYERS.

NEW YORK, April 13.—I had a long talk with Jess Willard at his hotel on Broadway today. It was the first real interview he had given since he defeated Johnson in Havana. "I feel sure I could have beaten Johnson in the sixth round," he concluded. "The only thing that stopped me was my future. I wanted to be sure.

"I knew I had to prove myself to the world and," he added almost diffidently, "I think I succeeded; don't you?

"Only two persons were absolutely confident of my ability, my wife and myself. But our faith was vindicated.

"The worst beating of my life came just after the fight was over," said Willard threw back his head and laughed boyishly.

"My friends actually blistered my back with their thumpings and congratulations. The dose Johnson gave me was nothing compared to what the fans did to me later."

It had heard that Willard was a big man. But even my expectations were surpassed as he came into the reception room to greet me. He had just spent a few minutes with his barber and his splendid physique and perfect health was shown in the freshness of his face and the massive strength which marked every movement.

He laughed as the photographer appeared. "I am trying to get used to this sort of thing, but it's awfully hard on a fellow at first," he confided as he side-stepped a rug at the photographer's request. "I'll feel lots better about it if you are photographed to keep me company."

Willard is six feet seven with his shoes on, and I felt like a pigmy beside him. But it was not his awful physique alone which made me feel sure that Willard is a "big man." He is big, not alone because he is able to fight well, but because he is still modest, unassuming young fellow. I could see how you felt when you rocked Johnson out and knew that you were the 'white hope' who had made good," I added.

Willard stopped smiling. I felt the seriousness with which he faced the results of his victory.

"When I first knew that Johnson was champion I made up my mind I would take back the laurels that had got away from our race," he answered simply. "All I can remember thinking in the confusion which followed the knockout blow was just this, 'I've done it. I've done it,' then I thought of my wife. The idea that she would be happy made me glow all over."

"I tell like a kid in fairyland," he continued with a boyishness quite irresistible. "It all seems so unreal to think that I am somebody! For the first time in my life. The crowds on the street and all the trains all the way from Havana seem unreal. They acted just the way for me that would for the president. But it's mighty glad."

"What made you think you could be a big fighter?" I demanded. "There are plenty of fighters who never dream anyone is the title."

"I guess I just naturally thought I could tackle the big fellows because of my size," he answered. "I remember how the boys in Kansas used to laugh at me when I said I wanted to be a boxer. I was a big, lumbering cow in those days and did not know anything more about fighting than a babe.

"I was in the horse business in Kansas four years ago when I decided to chance everything on the idea I could make a regular fighter out of myself. I had been shipping horses from Wyoming to Kansas and I was pretty muscular, because I had broken them and lived 'll my life out of doors.

Knocked Out in His First Ring Battle.

"I could not start boxing in Kansas because of the laws. So I moved my family, two small girls and my wife, to a wee home in Oklahoma. One day some one dragged me into a gymnasium. I had never been in one before. I thought in those days that the fellow I was to box was the farthest and lift the most was the best fighter.

"That town in Oklahoma saw my first fight," Willard chuckled. "I took on the town fighter with nothing but my nerve to help me," he continued. "I trained for a week. We staged the thing in an old barn and all the village sports turned out to see me get my first licking. I had never had the gloves on before, and what I did not know about them then would fill an encyclopedia."

"How did it end?" I asked.

"Well, if you must know," he confessed, "I was knocked out in the third round. They said I was knocked out on a foul. I was so green I did not even know what they meant by 'foul,' but I stuck to training and three weeks later I tried myself against my man and knocked him out in six rounds.

"And right here I want to say with every bit of sincerity that is in me," and he leaned forward in his eagerness and pounded his knee with the right fist that had spelled Johnson's doom, "if ever a fellow wants to get anywhere he's got to stick in the face of the whole world. I did not have a soul to back me from the start but my wife. But I stayed by until I convinced myself that I could deliver the goods.

"There's always a fellow around somewhere to knock, but might few to boost when you make your start. But anything I have ever done is just because I stuck where the others listened to the knockers and got the courage I was fanning now I had a queer little feeling of showing myself what I really could do when I got up and faced Johnson."

Knew He Had Johnson When Jack First Landed.

Willard's voice had a reminiscent ring in it. "But when he delivered his first blow I knew I had him. I knew then I could stand his punishment, and I played his own game the way he played it. That's what really turned the trick—that and this left out of doors.

I ducked as a mighty arm shot out like lightning and swung above my head. That was the arm and the particular swing which had laid low a world champion.

"That's what I mean by my 'left hand'," Willard explained. It was the first hint of pride in his voice that I had detected.

"But let me tell you I believe Johnson the cleverest head fighter in the world," Willard continued. "The only thing that were him down and at last got on his nerves was the fact that I made him be the aggressor. He was not used to that. He had always let the other fellow take the initiative. I blocked his blows and then hit from the 'blockade' just the way he did. That's what he did not expect."

"Won't you tell me something of your wife and family?" I hazarded the question. His face lighted and he laughed again. He laughs so wholesomely just as if he meant it.

"My wife's so happy she can't do anything but smile. He showed me a stack of letters and telegrams he carried in an inner waistcoat pocket.

"Those are a few of the smiles she's sent me," he declared. "I got a telegram from her a couple of hours ago. She wanted me to know that a photographer had come out to the house and taken her with the kiddies."

"Aren't you the least bit homesick?" I ventured.

"You bet I am," he shouted in his enthusiasm. "Home's going to look pretty big to me when I get back this Summer. We are going to start on the road next week and they cannot make western dates too fast to suit me. I'd been back there right after the fight was over if there had not been the business.

First Check Went to Wife to Lift the Mortgage.

Willard did not tell me, but Jack Curley, one of his managers did, that the first check he received after the big fight was indorsed and sent direct to the little home in California. There's no mortgage on the Willard home now. The fight lifted it.

Willard did not need to be questioned any more on that line. I had chanced upon his pet hobby.

"When I get enough money I'm going to buy myself a ranch and get far from this 'madding crowd,'" he explained. "I get sick for a sight of the open here in the city. It stifles me. Sometimes I feel like Sampson must have felt when he pulled down the temple. I feel like pushing out the sides of the elevators as I ride in them. The city is no place for a man to live. I'm making hay in the city now but you can bet I'm going to make real hay later on."

"There's Jess, Jr., sixteen months old, what are you going to make of him?"

"That question brought a short, rather unexpected answer. "A farmer."

I must have looked my bewilderment for Willard continued hastily:

"Don't ask me if he's to be a fighter. He won't be if I can help it. It's too hard and rough for a boy. I hope he wants to go to an agricultural school and make of himself a farmer and a gentleman."

"It has been said that a man can't be a prize fighter and a gentleman, too," I asked him, "what do you think about that?"

"That is something I am still unable to answer," he replied. "That question has bothered me a little, I must confess. All I know now is that if he is a good fighter and remains a gentleman he is attempting something that is not easy. I think it can be done, but it's hard."

"I want to see boxing the honored sport in this country that it deserves to be. It is a gentleman's game and a scientific sport that a man with brains can enjoy. The men I met with are all clean cut, splendid men.

"Do you know, I think men are getting too big?"

Willard doesn't switch in his conversation abruptly, so I knew that what he had to say would follow closely on his ideas of sportsmanship."

"The average city man," he went on, "is a good sportsman at heart, but he's too lazy to exercise. He'd rather do two cabarets and dance himself dog tired than do an hour's good exercise or take a good, long, stiff walk. Some day men will pay in crippled careers and chronic indigestion for all this tomfoolery.

"I wish I could get every young fellow to see that regular sleeping hours are money in his pocket. Three hours' sleep before midnight is worth six after it. Any fellow that gets up late ought to be ashamed of himself that he'd take a jump in the lake.

"I'm quite rabid on the subject of sleeping late," Willard said, but he was very much in earnest.

Cites His Own Courtship as Proof of Real Romance.

"When a man sleeps late it takes the edge off the whole day. It gets muggy and his brain runs on one cylinder. Then I am strong for regularity in meals. A man should have three good meals a day—a pick-me-up—and a few drinks in between, eat a lot of fruit and vegetables, but very little meat."

Of course the inevitable question followed. Willard said:

"Do I drink or smoke?" Not very much of either, but a little when I

WILLARD'S OWN STORY OF LIFE

possessed when I was a boy and which I never outgrew. I showed it in the Havana battle when I refused to be awed by the presence of the most wonderful fighter of the day and a little later refused to be cut down by his mightiest punches.

But what helped me most to keep me going during the lean, gnawing days when there was nothing in sight, and money counted in, no matches on, nothing but a defeated ambition at every turn was the sneer that I received. That was the goad I needed. It made me champion.

BIG GREEN FARMER.

I was pretty much what they call a jay, a big green farmer, totally unused to city ways, vlong about that time that Jack Johnson won his title from Tommy Burns in Australia.

That did not excite people in this country very much, but when the defeat of Jim Jeffries came on top of the feeling that Jeffries was the only white man who had a chance with the negro there was a lot of excitement. It struck the little settlement where I lived. It was then that I first conceived my ambition to some day win the big title.

That was in July, 1910, and mind you at the time I had never even seen a boxing glove, let alone having a pair of them on my hands.

But I weighed 280 pounds and had mixed up a little in amateur athletics in my township. As big as I was I was known as "Quick on my feet" because they had timed me 100 yards in eleven seconds at a couple of county fair meets and the performances were all right.

I knew, because the horse timers watches were on me. Besides that, I was one of the best swimmers ever seen in our river and generally regarded as something of an all-around man.

TWO BIG BROTHERS.

My father died before I was born, but left my mother in fairly comfortable circumstances, so that we got along well. I have two brothers, both of them big fellows—Robert and Marion—and both of them live in the southwest corner of Jackson County, Kansas.

After we were pretty well grown my mother married M. L. Stalker, a substantial man, and they moved to Topeka, where my mother died about four years ago. We all loved our stepfather, and he saw to it that we received a good a bringing up as any boys in the county. He taught us correct principles and gave us an excellent start in life.

While a farmer boy I married Miss Evans, whose father is still a farmer of excellent standing a few miles out of Kendall, Kansas. We have three children, and you may be sure I am mighty proud of them. They are hardly old enough yet to be proud of their father.

My birthplace was in Adrian township, which did not boast of a single town, but I generally call Emmett my home, though St. Mary's is the nearest place to the spot where I was born. Next I will tell you something about the boyhood days in Kansas.

feel like it. A few glasses of beer won't ever hurt a man, but cocktails are an abomination. Everything in moderation and a man can do pretty much as he pleases. Only if he wants to be strong physically he must keep regular hours and exercise at least an hour every day. For the city man pulleys and a little gymnasium apparatus in his own room are indispensable.

"As for swearing," Willard continued, "I never found that it helped me one bit. I'm not a swearing man and I'm not in favor of having my women swearing at me either."

As we were talking a letter was handed to Willard. It seemed to amuse him a great deal. He showed it to me. "It's another of those crush notes I've been getting ever since I left Havana," he said. "This girl wants to be a 'pal' and wants me to gone to the movies with me if she'd known I was in town. She says she'd be the kind of a pal my wife wouldn't object to.

"I suppose that's a part of this notoriety I'm getting," he continued. "But this sort of thing annoys me almost more than anything I know. When it comes right down to romance, I'm satisfied that I have the best sweetheart in the world. I had known Hattie Evans all my life, and it seemed perfectly natural that we should become engaged when we were about twenty.

"I was working on the same farm where she lived in Kansas. We were engaged two years, and married March 2, 1907, at Leavenworth. That's what I call a safe, comfortable sort of a romance. No other sort of romance counts."

LANGFORD CHOICE IN GO TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY.

The boxing season will be opened in Boston this evening, when Sam Langford and Joe Jeanette clash in a twelve-round bout before the Atlas A. A. These dusky gladiators are ranked with the world's leading heavyweights. They have engaged in a number of encounters in the ring and have usually put up a hard, fast battle.

Langford rules a slight favorite over Jeanette for tonight's meeting. The wise men believe that the "Old Baby's" ability to land terrific punches will enable him to breeze in a winner.

Sam has not been very busy within the hemp ropes during the past five months, but he has engaged in enough bouts to keep himself in condition. Langford has been working out for tonight's skirmish for almost two weeks and declares that he is fit for the tussle.

Jeanette arrived in Boston this morning. The Hoboken black asserted that he is in grand shape and he looked the part. Joe is the kind of athlete who always takes good care of himself. Consequently he is able to give the best men in his class a merry battle on a very short notice.

JOE EXPECTS TO WIN.

Jeanette is a confident old warrior and informed us today that he would be a little crimp in Langford's record. He admits that Samuel is a mighty rugged citizen and that he is able to punch harder than any man in the world, with the possible exception of Jess Willard. Jeanette nevertheless contends that he possesses enough class to dispose of the Cambridge "Bone Crusher." He says that he will do most of his fighting at long range and that he should be able to win the decision on points.

Langford and Jeanette have engaged in a couple of slashing fights in this man's town, and "Ho Jo" managed to breeze in a winner on each occasion. Jeanette, however, made things very interesting for his opponent and fought at a lively clip in each session.

A large crowd is certain to turn out to witness the combat, as there has not been any professional boxing in the Hub since early last December. Then, too, Langford and Jeanette are classed with the world's best heavyweights.

The latest New England fistic lovers who still believe that Langford possesses a class to do battle with any heavyweight in the world. He tried for many years to get a match with Jack Johnson. The Galveston negro, however, refused to meet him. A friendly understanding meeting he had with Langford in Chelsea in 1906.

GOOD PRELIMINARY CARD.

Langford's chances of winning the heavyweight championship are now but very slim. Jeanette is a tough nolder, and it does not look as though a negro would be able to pry the "Boston Terror" from the ring. Only for the very good reason that he says he will never enter a ring with a black man.

He is as it may, Samuel and Joseph will be on the job at the Atlas Club tonight, and we should witness some good, old-fashioned fighting, before the honorable "dope" gets a severe jolt. The contest will be refereed by Jack McGuigan of Philadelphia.

Larry Burns of Lawrence and Charley Sheppard, who hails from New York, will exchange punches in a six-round bout over the route. There will also be a couple of six-round whirls.

Exeter Ball Star Breaks His Ankle

EXETER, N. H., April 13.—Norman Kelley, star baseball and footballer of the School athlete, broke his ankle during a practice game between the first and second base runners today.

While trying to score his ankle twisted under him and he fell with a snap that was heard plainly. The mishap will keep this valuable little player out for the rest of the year.

Harvard Fencing Leader.

William H. Russell of New York has been appointed captain of the Harvard fencing team. He is a freshman and the first of that class to hold such an honor. Allen Shortt was appointed manager.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were not so active at the opening today as they were yesterday and the same was true of the first hour's business. Prices were irregular, both in Boston and New York. Bethlehem Steel continued to inspire the most interest, continuing its advance to 127, a new high record. It soon reacted to 123½, and then rose to 125. A number of issues were strong, including Great Northern Ore, American Cotton Oil, Amalgamated and Missouri Pacific. It was said that there was extensive accumulation of "Mop." Profit taking continued, but the undertone was satisfactory to bulls.

CHANGES IN NEW YORK.

Soon after the opening gains in New York included Amalgamated ⅛, American Can ⅛, American Smelting ⅛, Baltimore & Ohio ½, Chino ¼, Missouri Pacific ⅝, New Haven ¼, Reading ⅝, St. Paul ⅝, Union Pacific ¼, U. S. Steel ⅜, Utah ⅛, Goodrich ½, Maxwell ½, Mexican Petroleum 2¼, Willys-Overland ¼ and Westinghouse 2. Among losses were Canadian Pacific ¼, Northern Pacific ¼, Studebaker ⅝ and Rock Island 1¼.

LOCAL LIST MIXED.

The local list was mixed as to gains and losses. A number of issues were unchanged, including Alaska Gold, American Woolen preferred, Boston Elevated, Boston & Maine, Butte & Superior and United Shoe. Among advances were Calumet & Hecla 2, Copper Range ⅝, Granby ½, Greene-Cananea ¾, North Butte ⅛, New Haven ⅛, and St. Mary's ¼. Among declines were Calumet & Arizona ¼, Osceola ½, Quincy 7, United Fruit ½, and U. S. Smelting ¼.

After a long trip through the West, Chairman Julius Kruttschnitt of the Southern Pacific said:

"Sentiment toward the railroads seems to be distinctly better all over the country. People have to be educated. They mean to do what is right. When they understand a question their decision is correct. They thought that regulation meant management. Both as to revenue and expenses, the actual managers have had very little to say about their properties, but the public is now seeing the light."

ROCK ISLAND FIGHT.

After electing Nathan L. Amster, a Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific director, insurgent stockholders said they had only begun their fight for reorganization and control. W. Emlen Roosevelt, William J. Matheson and Charles Hayden, also elected, had the backing of the Sheldon committee, which represents majority stockholders and the controlling faction. Minority stockholders concentrated their proxies, under the cumulative voting system, on Mr. Amster, with the following balloting result: Amster, 605,168; Hayden, 437,934; Matheson, 437,702; Roosevelt, 437,702. There are now thirteen directors, but one resolution adopted provides that a committee consider limiting their number to five and paying them a salary with the understanding they devote their time to the railroad's service.

Why Cadum Is Good for Skin Diseases

The important thing in treating many skin diseases is to keep water away from the inflamed parts and make the covering as air tight as possible. This, according to a very distinguished New York physician, seems to kill the germ and set up the healing process quickly. Cadum, the well-known skin remedy, supplies that kind of a covering and keeps out the air. This covering consists of petrolatum and white wax, which Cadum contains. Two other ingredients of Cadum are zinc oxide, which dries up the water that comes from the sores, and oil of cade, which is one of the oldest and best-known remedies for Eczema. Physicians everywhere employ oil of cade more often, perhaps, than any other one thing in treating Eczema. Cadum costs 10c for a trial box, while the 25c box contains nearly four times as much as the 10c size.—Advertisement.

U. S. WARNS DYSPEPTICS

Way To Treat Indigestion

Sufferers from indigestion and nervous dyspepsia who have been relying upon frequent doses of pepsin, soda, diastase, pancreatin, trypsin, etc., as contained in various patent digestive remedies, in order to obtain relief are warned by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture that investigation shows that often such preparations stay too long on the druggists' shelves deteriorating in quality so that their digestive activity and value is lost.

A well known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as many people believe, to a lack of digestive juices. This acid ferments the food in the stomach, and causes trouble. But if you correct or neutralize the acidity with some simple, harmless antacid, the distress, sourness, bloating, etc., will cease and painless digestion become an easy matter of course.

He says to lay aside all pepsin pills, soda mint tablets, salts and other digestive aids, and to get from any druggist a small bottle of plain Bisurated Magnesia and take one or two teaspoonfuls in a quarter glass of hot or cold water after meals. Bisurated Magnesia will promptly stop the stomach acidity and so end all stomach distress. Insist, however, on Bisurated Magnesia as ordinary or citrated Magnesia will not stop stomach acidity at all. Most druggists carry the genuine Bisurated form in both powder and tablets selling it only in sealed bottles which insure its full strength and purity.

Pictures Tell the Story of Our Mexican Policy

Three pages of pictures in Sunday's AMERICAN told more vividly than any words how unchecked is the rage of anarchy in Mexico, how spurned and flouted is the flag of the United States after two years of watchful waiting.

The flag waved bravely in one picture—bravely, that is, to the eye, until one saw beneath it the stain made by the blood of John B. McManus on the stones of his home—slain even while the flag of the great Republic of which he was a citizen waved over his head. It fluttered as a plaything, not a protection.

Monetary recompense has, indeed, been made to his family by the Mexican factionists who murdered McManus, but it is noticeable that Secretary Bryan made NO DEMAND FOR ANY APOLOGY FOR THE INSULT TO THE FLAG. Such insults have passed into the commonplace in Mexico. Moreover, the last demand for a Mexican apology for an insult to the flag, though emphasized by a fleet of warships, fifty thousand troops and the lives of nineteen American bluejackets, still goes unsatisfied.

The flag? You can see it in the picture torn down and thrown with the rubbish and wreckage of a club sacked by rioters because Americans frequented it. You can see it thrown like a rag on a filthy floor for all to trample on. And, from the Mexican point of view, WHY NOT?

What does the flag of the United States stand for in Mexico? Why should the average street rioter, or even peon, pay it respect when one after another the chieftains who have risen to power in that country have either hoodwinked or openly defied the government which that banner symbolizes?

The flag of the United States HAS NOT PROTECTED THE PROPERTY OF OUR CITIZENS in that republic. Under the present administration no effort has been made to protect their property. Instead, they have been lectured by the Secretary of State for embarking in business in a neighboring land, presumably friendly, and expecting their home government to manifest any interest in them whatsoever.

The flag of the United States HAS NOT PROTECTED THE LIVES OF HER CITIZENS IN MEXICO. The McManus case is only one of scores. Instead of protecting its citizens, the government has been content to advise them to leave the country. The conviction—old, almost as the idea of nationality—that a government should protect its citizens to the utmost of its ability wherever they might chose to go has been coldly set aside by this administration. It thinks Americans should stay at home or take the consequences.

Perhaps the Wilson-Bryan idea is logical. An administration which could push through a tariff law giving foreigners every possible advantage in our markets without seeking to open a single new market to our producers, is, naturally, blind to the spirit of enterprise which would lead men into foreign lands in search of trade. The narrow provincialism of a college campus and a Nebraskan alfalfa field little stimulates the understanding of the motives that have led Americans since the early days of the Republic to fare far afield in search of new territories for trade, new lands into which to carry the fruits of American inventive genius, industry and enterprise.

When the nation was far younger, poorer and weaker it was strong enough to protect its missionaries of trade in lands far more distant than neighboring Mexico. Perry's guns opened Japan to our ships when Europe accepted her locked doors as impregnable. Decatur and Preble demolished Barbary pirates while England, Spain and France were paying them tribute. We can come a little closer to the present moment and recall that Roosevelt got "Perdicaris living" without having to enforce his demand for "Raisuli dead."

Only now, when the republic has its more than 100,000,000 people, its resources unparalleled by those of any nation, when its finances are bottomed on the rock, and its government stands as solid as the everlasting hills, do we weakly shrink from our manifest duty to our own people in foreign lands.

In the pictures of riot and anarchy in Mexico City was one of mortifying significance. The British flag left waving over a house belonging to an American citizen, from which his own flag had been torn down, suggests a contrast between the methods pursued by the two governments for the protection of their citizens abroad upon which patriotic Americans will not care to look.

When a Man Bites a Dog, That Is News

When an Old Lady Runs Away With an "Affinity," That Is Also News—And It Is Almost GOOD News for a Change

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

"Young man, when a dog bites a man, that is not news, because it happens so often. But if a man bites a dog, THAT IS NEWS." So said John Bogart, beyond question the best preacher of journalism this country ever knew.

He was a whole "school of journalism" in himself. He could tell the young men where to go for their news, what questions to ask, what was and what was not worth while. Above all, HE COULD GIVE ENTHUSIASM TO HIS MEN. HE WORKED BY ENCOURAGING, NOT BY HARSH CRITICISM.

* * *

If it is "news" when a man bites a dog, it is also most distinctly news when a dear old lady, aged sixty, runs away with an affinity.

We deplore the event, and wish that such things might never happen.

But we feel bound to say that since affinities MUST run away with each other, it is almost a pleasure to hear that once in a million times the aged person who runs away is a woman, and not a man.

Every day in the year you may read that some bald, worn-out, silly old man has left his family and gone off to make himself permanently miserable with a youngster of the other sex.

Very rarely it happens, as now, in the case of Mrs. Horsley Barker of Brooklyn. Mrs. Barker, according to the evidence given before Justice Maddox, has made herself "news" by going away with an affinity from Plainfield.

This is NEWS because:

It is a thing that rarely happens. A man is usually the goose

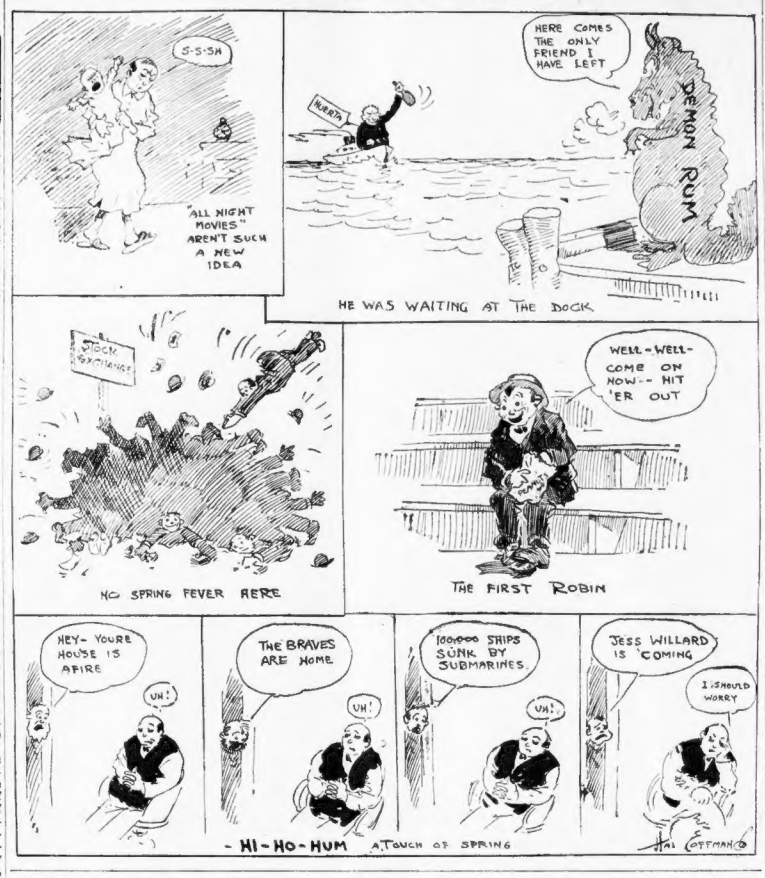
And So It Goes



WAR VIEWS

By PERCY SHAW

I MET a sad-eyed person of a strong Teutonic cast
Whose scars were eloquential of a Heidelbergian past
And to uplift his spirits, in an unobtrusive way
I summoned up my savoir faire sufficiently to say:

"Well, now that Marshal Hindenburg has routed the Russians in Bukowina and won the battles of the Mazurian Lakes and captured Lods, and the Kaiser's submarines have made the seas unsafe for England's fleet and the Germans have annexed Belgium and put the allies on the defensive, it seems to me that nothing can prevent an ultimate victory for this remarkable nation."

He faced me with a glassy eye and shook an angry head.
"My sympathies are English," he very tensely said,
"And you'd confer a favor if you'd keep your silly views
For idiots who like to read the doctored Berlin news."

I met a sombre person of a truly Gallic pose
Who radiated Paris in the way he wore his clothes.
And to dispel his sorrow, in a purely healing way,
I summoned up my courage sufficiently to say:

"Well, now that General Joffre has beaten the Germans in the Argonne and kept Von Kluck from getting near Paris and the French and English fleets are starving the Fatherland and the Russians are pouring into Galicia and the German shipping has been wiped off the seas, it looks to me as though little Willie with his iron crosses would have to eat humble pie."

He fiercely frowned upon me as he waved a savage hand;
"I'm strongly for the Kaiser, I'd have you understand.
And you'd confer a favor if you'd keep your foolish views
For clowns who like to revel in the censored English news."

I met a purse-proud neighbor of a famous New England stock,
Whose Puritanic forbears had a lien on Plymouth Rock.
"We never must forget," said he, "to go our even way,"
And so, with calm insouciance, I led myself to say:

"Well, it doesn't make any difference to me who wins this horrible war—I'm strictly neutral—all Americans ought to be—and the only thing I hope and pray is that this terrible slaughter of innocent men will stop and a speedy peace will inaugurate a better and happier era among the nations of the earth. It's high time that this scientific murder was ended."

With flaming face he glared and spoke as only neutrals can,
"And so you dare to call yourself a full-fledged thinking man!
I'd thank you for the favor if you'd keep your milksop views
For dolts who have not brains enough to know which side to choose."

Natural Education; Make Children Think

By ELBERT HUBBARD

EDUCATION begins with life. As a matter of fact, life itself is education; and even death may be simply a graduation to a higher grade—who knows?

Education comes from the Latin word "educere," meaning "to lead or draw out."

It would seem, however, that the general conception of education is to cram full.

Plato's famous definition of a man as "a two-legged animal without feathers" led Diogenes to bring a plucked Rostand rooster to school and, holding it up before the assembled class, he exclaimed, "Here's Plato's man!"

And although Plato precluded the reoccurrence of the joke by adding the words "with broad flat nails" to his definition, still it would appear that some of our educators look upon a child as a pet fowl, to be stuffed to repletion.

* * *

Education is an evolution, an all-round development; and it must be free, spontaneous, natural.

You make take a horse to water, but you cannot make him drink; you may send a boy to college, but you cannot make him think. The great aim of education is to discipline rather than furnish the mind—to lead it to think.

What does the accumulation of the knowledge of others profit if it crowds out your own initiative?

Education is meant to open up to our vision new vistas of thought and beauty. It enables us to chart our own ship, to paddle our own canoe, collect our own cargo and find our own market.

You co-operate, first with yourself, then with others.

* * *

The education of the race begins at the cradle.

It is here that the foundation of character is made, and subsequent teaching avails little or nothing in removing or altering it. Here is awakened the love of truth and the sense of duty.

The seeds of kindness, brotherliness and sympathy are implanted at the mother's knee.

The mother's smile, the father's "well done," picture books and sand piles, hands full of posies, the falling leaves of Autumn, the snowflakes of Winter, the birds of Spring, the sunshine and the wind in the trees—these begin education.

They direct the thoughts to Mother Nature, to things that are wondrously beautiful, to acts of benevolence, to deeds of mercy, to the source of all good.

And subsequent education should be their auxiliaries. To think clearly and to act rightly should be the object of true education.

The art of the teacher consists in stimulating thought-activity—in thrilling the pupil with the thought that he is part of all that is. Kindling minds!—that is the teacher's greatest function and privilege.

"Delightful task," says Thomson, "to rear the tender thought, to teach the young idea how to shoot, to pour fresh instruction over the mind, to breathe the enlivening spirit, to fix the generous purpose in the flowing heart."

* * *

Suggestion is the teacher's "live coal," and the teacher who has succeeded in arousing the mind and body to action has learned the secret of true education.

The body is developed by exercise, and the mind also. All education should be play; just as all employment should be as play. That's the logical sequence. Education is all-round development.

An educated man is he who develops his totality. So it happens that observation and experience play the most important part in education.

And one of the best educations in the world is to make a living.

And to make a living, nowadays, man must be honest, truthful, healthy and good-natured.

Thus we get back to our starting point, the cradle, where the foundations of education—love of truth and sense of duty—are laid.

Also, fletcherize on this! Educated parents have educated children.

2 Policemen Keep 72,000 in Order in Iceland

No Wealthy People in Island, but All Are Aristocrats; No Paupers, but All Are Poor—Only Murder Committed 47 Years Ago

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

CAN you imagine an island containing 72,000 civilized human beings where only two police officers are to be found or needed, but one hospital, no poorhouse or orphan asylum, and only an empty prison?

And no begging, no "town poor," no homeless people?

Well, such a "country" exists, so we were told by one who was born and bred there, and who makes yearly pilgrimages to her old home.

This land is Iceland.

To most of us it is a mere name, learned in geography in childhood, and suggestive of bitter cold and desolation.

Instead, it proves to be a land milder than New England in Winter, because warmed by the Gulf Stream, and one of the wonders of the world from a moral and peaceful and industrious standpoint.

There are no wealthy people in Iceland, but all are aristocrats, so far as ancient pedigrees count in aristocracy, and that is aristocracy's only claim to worth.

In the year 874 (eight hundred and seventy-four, mind you!), a collection of "kings," each of a little kingdom of his own, rebelled against the tyranny of another king who wanted to "boss" them all and emigrated from Norway to Iceland.

Every one of the 72,000 inhabitants of Iceland today can trace his ancestry directly back to one of these kings.

Of course every king or queen in the world today is no more "royal" of blood than are all these Icelanders, for each one originally descended from some such petty chieftain who called himself a "king" in those early days.

Poverty and hard work became the lot of those chieftains and their families in Iceland, but they bore it proudly and taught their children to be noble and upright and dignified in their conduct, as a proof of their lineage.

Today the people of Iceland are all poor, but there are no paupers, no dependents; all are self-supporting. There is little or no crime there.

The only murder committed since the memory of the informant—a lady of mature years—was some forty-seven years ago by an insane man.

He, too, was a solitary figure, as there are no insane people as a class in Iceland, and no necessity exists for a retreat. The prison is rarely occupied, except when drunken sailors come ashore from foreign ships and introduce disorder.

There is no orphan asylum or home for the aged. When any child is orphaned some mother takes it to her own home and hearth and heart and raises it as her own.

When aged persons are bereft of their natural protectors, the same humane law exists and they are sheltered and cared for while they live by sympathetic friends and neighbors.

Sheep raising, weaving, spinning, knitting, hay raising and fishing form the occupations of these descendants of ancient kings.

Each man, however poor, is yet self-supporting, and as "royal" as his neighbor who may possess a little more.

In the memory of the oldest inhabitant there have been but two divorces. These necessitated three years' separation from "bed and board" before legal divorce could be obtained.

(New York fashionable society will not be liable to emigrate to Iceland.)

An American woman paid a visit to Iceland some time ago and wrote of it as follows:

"An isle of wonder, born of fire and ice; a land where there are few schools and no illiterates, no orphan home or almshouse, and no houseless head or beggar; where the government pays the doctors, teachers and preachers; where every man has an occupation, and capital crimes are unknown."

The crying need of Iceland today is a school for girls. Mothers are the only educators of their daughters, while a fine college for men has existed for centuries.

That the women of Iceland are so intelligent and well informed as they are speaks wonders for these mothers, deprived of all save the rudiments of education.

Inklings and Thinklings

By WEX JONES

The wisest man declared that there were four things which were too wonderful for him—the way of an eagle in the air, the way of a serpent upon a rock; the way of a ship in the midst of the sea; and the way of a man with a maid.

To which might be added the way of a United States mail wagon in a crowded street.

With the nation on the water wagon, Englishmen won't be able to sing about the "right little, tight little island."

See that a Jersey City maniac escaped by "running as fast as two policemen could run." Often heard that two heads were better than one, but had no idea that four feet were faster than two.

Pittsburgh has a police quartet which sings to the prisoners every evening. This quartet has one advantage—the audience can't walk out on it.

When a Man Bites a Dog, That Is News

who does not know when he is well off and wanders away from home.

Women represent common sense, fidelity, and men the opposite.

It's news, too, because Mrs. Barker set a good example to those who feel that they MUST be silly by running away with a man of her own age.

If she had been a MAN of sixty, instead of a woman of sixty, she would probably have gone wandering off with somebody about eighteen years old.

But this lady who is "news" did not at least descend to the lowest depths of silliness, and go off with someone young enough to be her grandchild.

An interesting news case of this kind is one that requires the treatment of experts.

We have therefore requested that great poetical genius Ella Wheeler Wilcox to write and sing about it, and hope she will do so.

We have also asked Dorothy Dix, whose biting sarcasm has almost made many men and women behave themselves, to write about it from her point of view.

You will see what they have to say, and in the meanwhile you will please observe that woman's superiority to man is proved by the fact that when a man acts foolishly in this way nobody pays any attention, but when a woman acts in a silly way at the age of sixty it is news because it is as rare as the case of a man biting a dog.
